[illegible] taken his place 30 hours before the game started, waited through the night.

More important than the game is the fact that even a game of hitting, running, catching and throwing depends, as everything does, on brains.

A World Series is not won by young men with muscular legs, that swing bats and slide bases. It is won by some Connie Mack, who does the thinking. Too old to play, Connie Mack is not too old to think. His team won—young gentlemen take notice.

President Hoover's announcement, Secretary Mellon has promised to remain in office until 1933, is good news. The public appreciates the willingness of Mr. Mellon, one of the two or three richest men in the world, to neglect his own business for the public business.

It requires not much intelligence to realize to what extent Mr. Mellon's work has contributed to national prosperity.

Himself a heavy taxpayer, directly or through corporation ownership, Mr. Mellon has paid off already many billions of the national debt. He continues the "pay as you go" policy, not shouldering war debts on future generations that may be less able to pay than today's prosperous generation.

In his speech before Congress, Ramsay MacDonald impressed the country with his sincerity when he said: "There can be no war."

"Nay, more, it is absolutely impossible, if you, and we, do our duty in making the peace pact effective. No section of our arms, whether of land or sea or air, can ever again come into hostile conflict."

What MacDonald says about impossibility of war between the United States and Britain would apply, as regards war on a great scale, anywhere on earth, if the United States and the British Empire were united in determination to discourage and prevent war.

To do that they must be not only the richest and biggest, but the most powerfully protected nations on earth. Back of their words and civilization there must be everything to intimidate the warlike and lawless, including especially, airplanes, submarines, fast cruisers AND POISON GAS.

Competition for business among mail order houses produces interesting results, including bargains.

But even competition and the effort to please the public can be pushed too far.

Recently Sears, Roebuck, biggest mail order house, and its chief competitor, Montgomery Ward, said they would prepay not only postage, but freight, on all merchandise sold.

The freight on a keg of nails, in many instances, would be more than the cost of the nails, which would unduly favor buyers living at a distance. The mail order houses would eventually make the list price of nails include the freight.

In addition, with great mail order houses paying freight, absorbing it themselves, the public, including farmers, the most important customers of mail order houses, would become indifferent to freight rates, high or low.

They would not even know what freight rates were.

But it would not be good for the public, since it would necessarily pay freight charges in increased cost of merchandise, and not know what it was paying.

But prepayment of freight charges, in the long run, will prove harmful to many buyers, in addition to deadening public opinion and farmer protest, concerning railroad charges.

On October 21 the world celebrates the 50th anniversary of Edison's electric light invention. Emil Ludwig makes the interesting suggestion that, on the night of the anniversary, electric lights be turned out all over the world for one minute, to emphasize the value of Edison's work.

He calls Edison "a second Prometheus." Edison stole light from the lightning as Prometheus stole fire from Heaven.

Bomb 96 was aimed at the residence of C. H. McCarty, a stock broker. He would not let the police examine his books.

They wanted to find out whether gangsters among his customers had expressed disapproval of losses in their usual ingenious way.

TYPIST TELLS OF 'LOVE NEST' VISITS

Divorcee Says Rich Rhode Island Realty Man Lavished Money on Her

Providence, Oct. 8—How she and Edwin F. Cary, wealthy real estate operator, went to a "love nest" on the shores of Georgiaville pond on April 5, 1924, and celebrated his final decree of divorce was testified to today in Superior Court by Mrs. Grace L. Sanctuary.

She is suing him for $200,000 for breach of promise.

During her previous testimony she testified he built a love nest in Georgiaville in order that they might have clandestine meetings.

Q.—Did you go to the boat-house at Georgiaville pond on April 5, 1924? A.—Yes.

Q.—That was the love nest, wasn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you go there with him for? A.—To celebrate the freedom of Mr. Cary. He had been divorced and his divorce decree had become absolute. He was quite enthusiastic about it.

She told of placing her head on Carey's shoulder.

That Cary was fond of apple pie and sunsets was further testimony today by Mrs. Sanctuary, his former stenographer. Her two young daughters, Jane 10, and Harriet 13, continued to listen to her testimony today.

THEY PATTED HANDS

Q.—What did he do during that visit while your head was on his shoulder? A.—He patted my hand.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I patted his hand.

Q.—What was the date of that visit to the love nest? A.—July 26, 1924, the Saturday before I went on my vacation.

Q.—What did you talk about? A.—About our coming marriage and my vacation.

Q.—What did he say to you at the love nest that day? A.—He told me to go to Block Island with the children. He also said, "But do not forget while you are there that you are to be my future wife."

SUNSETS AND PIE

Q.—Did you and Mr. Cary take another trip to the love nest in Georgiaville on June 21, 1924? A.—Yes.

Q.—Tell us about that visit. A.—We went out late in the afternoon so that he could see the setting of the sun. He was fond of sunsets.

Q.—How long did you remain

GIRL STRANGLED BY SUITOR

Washington, Oct. 9 (INS)—A tragedy of jealousy and liquor was revealed early today with the finding of the body of a pretty girl strangled to death by her sweetheart in a room in the Hotel Roosevelt.

The girl was Marjorie O'Donnell, 23, an employe of the National Geographic Society.

Dexter Churchill Dayton of Kansas City, Mo., was arrested and confessed the crime after he had sobbingly telephoned the room clerk: "I killed my sweetheart."

When police arrived they found

EXTRA GUARDS TO CHECK FIRES

Following a series of incendiary fires in Malden and Medford, heavy police guards were stationed today at lumber yards and factory buildings in the two cities.

The pyromaniac who set three serious fires in Malden early one morning two weeks ago is believed by police and State authorities to have been responsible for the blaze that swept the Friend Lumber Co. yard in Medford with a loss of $40,000.

Inspectors Everett Shumway and Edward Horrigan of the state fire marshal's office, aided Malden and Medford authorities today in the hunt for the firebug. They have a meagre description of him obtained two weeks ago when he was chased from the last blaze he set in Malden.

The four fires attributed to him have caused a loss of about $200,000.

The Medford fire was one of a series of eight in Greater Boston during the night that caused the death of one man, $100,000 damage and resulted in the rescue of another man, a dog and a cat.

Fire Chief John Q. Hunt of Weymouth met death during a blaze in the Greenburg block in Weymouth. Francis C. Bell and his pet dog and cat were rescued in the same blaze.

EX-REGISTRAR TO SUCCEED J. F. DOWLING

Niland of Lynn Boxing Commissioner; Metropolitan Trustees Appointed

Frank A. Goodwin, former registrar of motor vehicles, was today appointed by Governor Allen as chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, succeeding John C. L. Dowling.

The appointment, for five years at $5000 a year, was said to be extremely acceptable to Goodwin, who feels it will afford him a good opportunity to co-operate with the city administration.

The Governor also appointed Thomas J. Niland of Lynn as State boxing commissioner in place of Daniel W. Lane.

The appointment of four associate trustees of the Metropolitan Transit District, created in conformity with the Elevated bill, was also announced.

They are Judge Edward L. Logan, Boston, eight years; A. C. Ratshesky, Boston, six years; Joseph Wiggin, Malden, attorney for former Governor Fuller, four years, and Henry I. Harriman, Newton, two years. Harriman is at present a member of the Metropolitan planning board and chairman of the Elevated trustees.

Goodwin's appointment followed a conference with the Governor this morning, and was taken to be a reward for his support in the last election. Following his defeat by

Threatens to Sue Pitcher for Cubs

Cleveland, Oct. 9 (INS)—Pat Malone, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, will be sued at the close of the World's Series by F. R. Howe of Lakewood for an alleged assault in a Cincinnati hotel Thursday, unless Judge Kenesaw Landis, baseball czar, takes action, Howe asserted today.

Howe, who claims he received head bruises and a blackened eye at the hands of Malone, said he had written Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs, and Judge Landis regarding the alleged assault.

Student, 16, Blamed for Setting 10 Fires

New York, Oct. 9 (INS)—A series of 10 disastrous apartment house fires in the Bronx were laid today to Arthur Osborn, 16-year-old student, who has confessed wholesale incendiarism for the thrill the flames and roaring fire engines provided.

NEW ENGLAND'S FIRST TOUCH OF WINTER

Freezing Temperatures Are Reported Throughout the Country

New England's first touch of winter hit this area of the country during the night and early today, freezing temperatures being recorded throughout, except along the seacoast line.

According to the official weather forecaster, the killing frost of last night and early today was the first general one in New England this season. Its severity withered late fall flowers and toppled over garden vegetables which still lingered.

In many sections the top of the ground was frozen and the surfaces of small ponds congealed.

The lowest official temperatures in New England were 22 at Concord, N. H., and Worcester, Mass. Readings of 24 at Northfield, Vt., and 23 at Greenville, Me., were reported. Boston's lowest was 35 at 6 a. m.

An unofficial reading of 18 was reported from Burlington.

The weather forecast for Boston is fair and cold tonight, cloudy and rising temperature tomorrow.

Otto Hahn's Former Secretary Missing

Arlington, N. J., Oct. 9 (AP)—Widespread search was being made today for William J. Wilson, 52, wealthy social leader and prominent churchman of Rutherford pl. Wilson, who until two years ago had been secretary for nine years to Otto H. Kahn, banker and philanthropist, has been missing from his home since Monday.

Harvey T. Wilson said his father had with him a large sum of money.

Forest Fire Damage Set at Over $3,000,000

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Damage estimated at more than $3,000,000 has resulted from fire that swept over 842,000 acres of forest lands this season.

The forestry service said this does not take into account damage to young tree growth, watershed protection and game and recreation values, nor the expenditure of $3,037,000 from the fire suppression fund. The total number of fires was reported at 5719 up to Oct. 1.

Wife's 204 Daily Calls O. K.'d by Court

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—A wife who telephones her husband 204 times a day seems to be immune from prosecution for disorderly conduct. Magistrate Doyle of Flushing dismissed a complaint by Dr. Liston Paine against his wife.

Crippled Victim Saves Dad of 8 From Jail

"Please don't send this man to jail, your honor; he is the father of eight childre and they need him."

This plea by Hugh Turner of Morgan st., Somerville, in behalf of the man whose automobile had knocked him down and crippled him for life. Sentence had already been passed when Turner appealed to Judge Charles T. Carr to rescind his decision. This the judge did and complimented Turner for his spirit.

"Please don't send him to jail," pleaded Turner, as he hobbled over to Judge Carr's bench. "His wife and eight children will be the real sufferers if he goes to jail and his imprisonment will not mend my injuries."

Judge Carr retracted his sentence of three months in jail for reckless operation of an automobile. Then he complimented the crippled man for his fairness. Turner has undergone eight major operations in two months as a result of the accident and will be crippled for life, according to surgeons.

Girl Hit by Auto Is Put on Danger List

Struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car in Boylston st., Back Bay, today, Jeanette Kenedy, 19, of Morton st., Mattapan, was seriously injured.

Walter Snyder of Franklin st., Lynn, driver of the car that hit her, took her to City Hospital. She was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and injuries to her [illegible]. Her name was placed on the [illegible] list.

COURT DOCTOR TO SEE FALL

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—A recess in the trial of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow was announced today by Justice William Hitz, who said he would have a physician examine Fall before deciding on his course in the case halted by the defendant's illness.

Fall, charged with bribery, was taken ill in the courtroom yesterday and Frank Hogan, his chief counsel, announced this morning that his client was unable to appear.

Hogan today announced that Fall was on the verge of bronchial pneumonia and that to return to court would jeopardize his life.

Wife to Join Mate on African Hunt

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Antoinette Fawcett regards herself as "game." Though she has heard that in some parts of Africa it is necessary to wash the hair with benzine, she intends to accompany her husband, Capt. W. H. Fawcett, on a forthcoming hunt.

He's away too much, and besides she wishes to check up on his stories of killing grizzlies.

EXPORT SURVEY TO BOOM TRADE

A complete survey of New England's export trade as a preliminary step in a drive for more New England exports was started today by the federal Department of Commerce.

Through the co-operation of the New England Council, confidential questionnaires have been mailed to 3000 manufacturers in this territory.

Hugh D. Butler, New England manager of the Department of Commerce, said:

"In my opinion New England's foreign trade is far greater than anyone realizes. Until we know what we are exporting and where we are exporting it we cannot effectively organize any kind of a program for a whole-hearted drive for more New England exports.

"To make sure the scheme of questionnaires is understood by all, representatives of the Department of Commerce plan to meet with business men in every corner of New England during the next three weeks.

"When the complete returns are available the department will add up the totals and make the aggregate figures available as soon as possible for the help of New England exporters, individually and collectively."

FRANCE, ITALY AND JAPAN WILL FIGHT PLAN TO BAN SUBMARINES

PREPARE FOR CONTEST IN LONDON

Hoover and MacDonald Hope for the Success of Parley, Despite New Obstacles

Washington, Oct. 9—France, Italy and Japan are expected to refuse to abandon submarines—necessary means of defense in their opinion.

President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, however, have high hopes for success of the five-power naval conference they have jointly sponsored for London in January.

More than three full months is allowed in the invitation for the other governments to discuss controversial points with Great Britain and the United States. Thus the powers would go to the conference table with a vast amount of preliminary work disposed of.

CLING TO SUBMARINES

Japan, France and Italy—particularly France—regard the submarine as "the poor man's defence" and can be expected to fight the proposal to the last ditch, just as France did in Washington eight years ago.

The Germans showed during the World War what submarines could do to overcome surface sea-power, and all the smaller powers consider the submarine their "equalizer."

The position of the American Government is one of almost indifference. [illegible] geographical isolation, and [illegible] naval power equal to any in the world, the United States is not dependent upon the submarine in any sense. It is a British problem, not American.

It was noted that the conference [illegible] no hint of extending the naval ratio established at the Washington conference.

That ratio was fixed as 5 for Great Britain and the United States, 3 for Japan and 1.6 each for France and Italy.

THESE WANT MORE SHIPS

Needless to say, both Great Britain and the United States would like to see that principle carried forward at London next January and applied to all classes of ships. But there is not much prospect of it.

From Tokio have come repeated intimations that Japan is going into the conference prepared to contend for an increased ratio in cruisers and submarines.

From Paris and Rome have come positive indications that France and Italy, rival powers on the Mediterranean, are not going to be content with the relatively minor roles assigned them in world naval power.

This is one, and perhaps the chief one, of the points which will be discussed and negotiated in the three months of private exchanges the two major powers have significantly allowed for in advance of the January conference. It has already been discussed between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald.

Briand and Cabinet Won't Abandon Submarines

Paris, Oct. 9 (AP)—Premier Briand today placed the British invitation to attend a five-power naval disarmament conference before his colleagues at a Cabinet meeting.

M. Briand asked the interested ministers to study the questions raised and to be ready to discuss the text of the reply at next Monday's Cabinet meeting, at which President Doumergue will preside.

The French reply, which will accept the invitation to the conference, will be a lengthy document, taking up every point raised in the British note.

The chill which greeted the note in official circles upon its translation has subsided, and it is now felt the phraseology used by Foreign Secretary Henderson invited French suggestions on the questions submitted and these will be forthcoming.

The present feeling in official circles is that France under no circumstances will abandon submarines as defensive weapons.

MacDonald and Ishbel Visit American Shrines

Washington, Oct. 9—This was Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's last day in the capital before he departs for Philadelphia, New York and Canada. They will leave Washington early tomorrow.

Before going to a luncheon given in his honor by the overseas writers the Prime Minister drove to the White House for a conference of more than half an hour with President Hoover.

AFTER BRILLIANT BANQUET

The prime minister and his daughter, Ishbel, slept an hour later than usual following a day of intensive entertainment climaxed by a brilliant diplomatic dinner given by Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador from Great Britain, at the British embassy.

Today they were to visit Mt. Vernon, the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery and George Washington University, where an honorary degree is to be conferred on the Premier.

Members of the diplomatic corps, the Cabinet, the Supreme Court and Congress were invited to attend the ceremony of the conferment of the degree upon Mr. MacDonald. Dr. Lloyd Heck Marvin, the university president, had prepared this citation for the ceremony:

UNIVERSITY CITATION

"James Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, social leader whose spiritual [illegible] vor and quiet will have [illegible] through periods of stress, [illegible] courage, steadfast understanding of service for public weal and [illegible] ged sympathy toward men, [illegible] as reality and make it an enlightening power in the lives of men and of nations, neighbor and envoy of understanding between allied people."

Italy to Insist on Keeping Its Subs

Rome, Oct. 9 (INS)—Acceptance by Italy of the Anglo-American invitation to participate in a disarmament conference was predicted in authoritative circles today. The press unanimously urges acceptance.

It is regarded as extremely likely, however, that Italy will fight for the right to maintain a submarine arm as a necessary means of defense.

MacDonald Accepts Honorary Degree

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said today in accepting the honorary degree of doctor of laws from George Washington University that one could never acquire anything in this world without purchasing it by "one's own efforts, own will and own sacrifice."

Statue Is Given Coat of Tar and Feathers

London, Oct. 9 (AP)—Jacob Epstein's statue "Rima," which has been the center of many fights in artistic circles since its erection in Hyde Park in 1925, was found today covered with tar and feathers. The statue, which is a memorial to W. H. Hudson, famous naturalist, was once disfigured with green paint shortly after its unveiling.

Fear '4 More Women Cult Members Dead

Los Angeles, Oct. 9 (AP)—[illegible] four missing women, all purported members of the religious cult known as "The Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleven," are dead, and [illegible] what disposal was made of their bodies.

The body of [illegible] Willa Rhoads, [illegible] was found Sunday in a [illegible] under the flooring of a house occupied by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, cult members. Investigation of the circumstances of her death and burial has indicated she died of natural causes, but a chemical analysis of the body is being made.

Members of a colony maintained by the religious order in the Santa Susana hills, north of here, were being questioned regarding the reported deaths of Frances Turner, Harlene Sartoris, Katherine Bolz and Addie McGuffin. Investigators say they have evidence to indicate the women are dead.

Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Sartoris were said by investigators probably to have been buried in Ventura, Cal. Mrs. McGuffin, a 60-year-old widow, was reported to have left the colony three weeks ago. Police said they could find no trace of her. Mrs. Bolz apparently has been unheard from since 1927.

Actress Fined $30 After Auto Chase

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 9 (AP)—Edith Wright, 20, specialty actress in Earl Carroll's "Vanities," which closes here today, was fined $30 for her little escapade down the main street of the city yesterday.

The young actress, nabbed after an automobile chase, paid only for having a revolver in her possession without a permit and for not having an automobile driver's license. Three other charges against her were dropped.

OFFICER FLEES HOUSE IN VICE PROBE RAID

Seek Identity of Hub Official Who Visited Home of Jean Parker

A member of the Boston police department fled from the Strathmore rd., Medford, home of Jean Parker, alias Josephine Delmo, shortly before federal officials and Medford police arrested her in connection with the white slave inquiry, it was learned today.

An investigation is being made to determine the identity of this police official and the reason for his presence in Jean Parker's house at that time.

The escape was made while the automobile of still another Boston police official was parked nearby, and occurred while the house was under surveillance.

When arrested on a white slave charge, Jean Parker was found to have in her possession telephone number of Boston police officials.

Jean Parker, according to police, operated one of the most remunerative houses of the white slave circuit. She has been in court on occasion, but has succeeded in obtaining her freedom.

The discovery that a Boston police oficial's automobile was in the vicinity of the Parker woman's home at the time of her arrest Sunday morning and that another Boston policeman was in the house caused surprise when the news became known today.

The officer in the house is said to have been "tipped" that a raid was impending and to have left the house before the arrival of the raiding officers.

It was learned that Department of Justice agents left Boston today for the north to question Muriel "Mickey" Foley, and two other girls concerning white slave activities on the Canadian border.

The Foley girl's original revelations were made at the time of the conviction here of the Horace Glidden automobile stealing ring, and an investigation was then made from Washington.

It is understood records of this investigation are on file at Washington and probably will be compared with information obtained in the present white slave inquiry arising from the slaying of Samuel Reinstein.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Hubert Thompson refused to talk about the case, but Asst. U. S. Atty. John W. Schenck visited the Suffolk county courthouse and was closeted with Dist. Atty. William J. Foley and his assistant, Frederick T. Doyle.

Prof. Ripley for N.E. Railroad Merger

Despite protests of New England railroad officials that a consolidation of the several lines is not wanted, Prof. William Z. Ripley of Harvard, railroad authority, today declared he was more convinced than ever that such a merger would be economically expedient.

"The new development in the New England railroad situation," Prof. Ripley said, "is the recovery of financial strength, chiefly by the New Haven and the Boston & Maine. All the old arguments in favor of a New England system from the traffic standpoint are as strong as ever. The combination should include the New Haven, Boston & Maine, Maine Central and Bangor & Aroostook."

BARE DIVORCE CELEBRATION

there with him on that date? A.—Until 9 p. m.

Q.—Did you have a meal there with him? A.—Yes, I bought some sandwiches and apple pie in Providence and took them out in the car. He was very fond of apple pie.

Mr. Cary, sitting a short distance from the witness smiled at this answer.

Q. Did you and Mr. Cary visit the love nest April 13, 1924? A. Yes.

Q. What do you recall with reference to that visit? A. His birthday was April 12, the previous day, and he sent me a check for $100. That was the way he celebrated his birthday. On the 13th during our visit to the love nest I said "That check is too much," and he replied "No it isn't; it's only what you deserve, but don't say anything about it."

DIVORCE AND LOVE

Q.—During your visit of April 5 to the love nest did you discuss anything else? A.—Yes, we not only discussed Mr. Cary's final decree of divorce but also my divorce action. We also discussed my marriage to Mr. Cary, which was set for the following January.

Q.—Did you talk about anything else that day? A.—Yes—plans for our honeymoon. Mr. Cary said he would arrange for a four months' honeymoon trip around the world.

Q.—When did you go there again? A. July 4, 1924.

Q—Tell us about that visit. A—He gave me $10 and said: "I want you to go to Newport with the children and celebrate your divorce." (It was to become absolute July 6.)

Q.—What did he say to you on that occasion? A.—He said: "Now you are free and I want you and the children to go on a vacation. You can go to the mountains or the seashore and I will pay for the visit." I told him I didn't think it right for him to pay and he replied, saying: "That's all right; it won't be long before I am paying all your expenses."

Q.—Did you take the vacation as he suggested? A.—Yes, the children and I went to Block Island early in August.

GAVE HER $250.

Q.—Did Mr. Cary pay the expenses of that vacation? A.—Yes.

Q.—How much? A.—He gave me $150 for the trip and $100 for incidentals.

Q.—Did Mrs. Cary meet you on your return from vacation? A.—Yes, on August 18.

Q.—What did he do or say on that occasion? A.—He placed his hands on my shoulders and said: "You look wonderful; absence does make the heart grow fonder."

Lakehurst Hangar Nearly Deserted

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 9 (AP)—The huge hangar at the naval air station was almost deserted today as the three navy aircraft, the Los Angeles, the semi-rigid dirigible J—3 and the all-metal "Tin Bubble" ZMC-2 took off at 8:30 for training flights. Only the J-4 remained at its berth.

The Los Angeles, which has been on the ground only eight hours in the last 36, returned to its mooring mast at 6:30, was refueled and went aloft again. Ten student officers were aboard to gain actual experience in piloting the dirigible.

GOODWIN WILL LEAD FIN. COM.

Allen in the primaries for the Republican nomination for Governor, Goodwin threw all his support to the side of his victor, and it is believed by many that the former register was a big factor in Allen's victory over Gen. Charles H. Cole, Democratic candidate.

It is understood Goodwin will stop the old Finance Commission policy of heckling the city administration and adopt a policy of co-operation.

Chairman Dowling, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Charles L. Carr, now an associate justice of the municipal court, declined to make any statement on Goodwin's appointment. It is understood he will retire as soon as the new appointment is confirmed by the Executive Council.

Thomas J. Niland, the new boxing commissioner, is a life-long friend of Gov. Allen. As boys, they played together on the same sand lots and went swimming in the same ponds.

A former professional baseball player and a leader in other sports, he was one of the most active campaigners for legalized boxing in Massachusetts in 1922.

At 15 years, Niland worked in the old General Electric plant in Lynn and landed a position in the infield of the company team.

A year later he was a shortstop on the Eastern League championship baseball team in Lynn.

From Lynn, he went to the Cincinatti National League team and played for a year. He later went to the Western League and remained there for three years.

Retiring from organized baseball, Niland returned to Lynn and opened a variety store. He is the father of three daughters, two of whom are school teachers in the Lynn schools. He has a younger daughter 11 years old, a pupil in the Lynn Junior High school.

Niland and Allen often raced on bicycles at the old Lynn race track. The Governor seldom fails to call on his old boyhood friend when in Lynn and during the tercentennary celebration last summer Allen insisted that Niland ride with him during the celebration.

Trying to Deliver Letters 64 Years Old

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 9 (AP)—After delay of more than 64 years, an attempt will be made to deliver 19 letters written by Confederate prisoners of war at Camp Chase military prison, Columbus, O., and addressed to persons then living in Arkansas.

No reason was given for delay in delivery, and it is not known here where the letters have been all these years. They were placed in custody of Mrs. Albert S. Porter, Lakewood, O., by an act of the Ohio Legislature last February.

PANTAGES PAID FOR LIE, SAYS WITNESS

Former Showman Testifies Rich Magnate Sought Perjury in Girl Attack Case

Los Angeles, Oct. 9—As the crowded courtroom sat spellbound, John Sheridan, theatrical man and surprise prosecution witness, today swore that Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman, has asked him to commit perjury in his behalf.

Sheridan testified that he had agreed to lie on the witness stand as to Pantages' alleged attack on Eunice Pringle, 17, dancer.

Sheridan, a San Diego lodge owner, testified that on September 22, more than a month after the alleged atack of the vaudeville magnate on Miss Pringle, Pantages came to see him at San Diego.

"I was asked," he testified, "if I would testify that I was in the little conference room the day of August 9. I said I would and would be glad to help in any way possible."

Pantages is alleged to have attacked the girl the afternoon of August 9 in the small room in the Pantages Theater Building which he used for conferences.

Sheridan testified he had known Pantages about 15 years and that he formerly was in the theatrical business.

YOUTH CHOKES GIRL TO DEATH

Dayton kneeling beside the bed on which Miss O'Donnell lay dead, with his head on her breast. Dayton was a life insurance agent.

WRITES CONFESSION.

Physicians declared the girl had been killed yesterday afternoon or evening. It was 3 a. m. today when Dayton telephoned the hotel clerk, and presumably he had been in the room since the killing. There were empty liquor bottles in the room.

The girl had dressed in an evening gown, but her shoes and stockings were off. Her face was beaten and finger marks were on her neck. Apparently the murderer had placed her in a "comfortable" position on the bed.

A note written by Dayton and found by the police read in part:

"I am going to kill my sweetheart and then myself. I know I love her—without her love I cannot live.

"We have both deceived each other and hurt one another. Now the liquor is wearing off. I shall begin drinking again and get up enough courage to kill myself."

JEALOUSY BLAMED.

Police found a pistol fully loaded and a box of cartridges under the mattress. The man had intended to use the weapon upon himself, he said. Dayton, when he sobered up enough, the police say, said he had registered at the hotel Monday and met the girl later by appointment.

They had a few drinks and began quarreling about attentions the girl had been receiving from another admirer.

Dayton said, although Miss O'Donnell had taken only a few drinks, she fell asleep on the bed. He then seized her throat and strangled her, police alleged.

He said, according to police, he had not relaxed his hold on her throat until he was sure she was dead. Then began his lonely vigil.

COTTAGE FARM OVERPASS IS FAVORED TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC JAM

COST WOULD BE LESS THAN $1,000,000

Boston American's Bridge Proposal Is Backed by Planning Board

A plan to relieve traffic congestion on the Commonwealth ave. side of Cottage Farm Bridge, proposed by the Boston Evening American, has met with the approval of engineers of the Metropolitan Planning Board.

The plan of the Boston Evening American provides for an overpass from the South End of Cottage Farm Bridge across Commonwealth ave., with exits on Essex and Carlton sts. The cost has been estimated at less than $1,000,000.

By means of the overpass traffic from northern New England, moving over the Northern artery through Memorial drive, Cambridge, would pass above Commonwealth avenue without interfering with traffic on that thoroughfare. Vehicles taking the Carlton st. exit of the overpass would proceed by way of Montfort st. to Audubon rd., connecting with routes to the south.

Downtown traffic would thus be relieved of cars moving through the heart of the city from the north and south.

ESSEX ST. BRIDGE

Essex st., if widened and extended, as proposed by various agencies would span Hall's pond by means of a bridge and connect with Beacon st. Cars taking the Essex st. exit would thus reach the through routes to the west of Boston without disturbing the already overtaxed Commonwealth ave. traffic situation.

When shown an artist's drawing of the Boston Evening American proposal, Otis D. Fellows of the Metropolitan Planning Board expressed his hearty approval. So interested was he in the plan, in fact, that he asked for a copy of the drawing. The plan will be presented to the board for consideration.

BEST PLAN OFFERED

Fellows declared the Boston Evening American project more closely follows the deliberations of the planning board than any of the others suggested by outside agents.

A previous plan, offered by other sources, providing for a viaduct over Commonwealth ave. at Cottage Farm bridge, was declared inferior to the proposed overpass.

The viaduct would allow traffic from the bridge to pass under the Commonwealth ave. flow of traffic but would incur the added cost of rerouting street cars to Brighton and Newton.

The Boston Evening American plan, however, would in no way interfere with either motor car or street car traffic on Commonwealth ave.

Edwin H. Rogers, chief engineer of the planning board, has a plan which incorporates the essential features of the proposed overpass advocated by the Boston Evening American.

ESSEX ST. TERMINUS

While Rogers' plan does not provide an overpass exit on Essex st. as well as Carlton st., the Boston Evening American believes that such a provision should be considered, inasmuch as present traffic conditions on the former street already predict a situation which will become more alarming in the future.

State traffic experts checking the traffic stream over both ends of the bridge have proved that the structure forms the keystone of a tremendous traffic vortex in which motor vehicles from northern, southern and western New England moves.

That an overpass is the logical solution to the alarming situation is accepted as a fact. That the plan of the Boston Evening American meets with the hearty approval of state experts further indicates that such a project should become a reality.

Can't Handle U. S. Palestine Claims

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Secretary Stimson has advised Representative Celler, Democrat, N. Y., the State Department is not in a position to handle claims of American nationals against the British Government for personal and property damages in recent Palestine massacres.

The department, however, he said had instructed the American consul-general at Jerusalem, to endeavor to obtain an extension of time for the filing of claims with the British commissioner at Palestine.

Farm Board Ready for Next Wheat Crop

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat representative of the Federal Farm Board, said today the board proposed to have national sales agency of the cooperatives set up in time to handle at least 40 per cent of next year's wheat crop. He added if this intention could not be accomplished in that way, some other means would be found.

PLANE CARRIES 4000 LB. BOMBS

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Practice flights with the new Curtiss Condor bomber by Major Frank H. Coleman, on which he successfully launched bombs weighing 4000 pounds, are described as satisfactory by the War Department.

The Condor is the new standard type bomber of the army air corps and is capable of reaching high altitudes while carrying a bomb of 400 pounds. It has a long cruising radius and ususually high speed for its type.

It will demonstrate its effectiveness in ordnance exhibitions tomorrow at the Aberdeen proving ground, Maryland, where the first tests were held.

World Series "Scalpers" Seized

Chicago, Oct. 9 (INS)—Eight youths today were in the custody of federal authorities following a wholesale roundup waged against World Series ticket scalpers by 30 internal revenue collectors.

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge sent out the detectives last week to keep on the lookout for persons attempting to sell the tickets for more than the quoted prices and thus defraud the government of a proportion of the amusement tax.

Declares the "Dawn of Conscience" Began 2000 Years B. C.

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—Dr. James Breasted, noted Egyptologist and director of the Oriental Institute, has traced the birth of conscience to a period about 2000 years before Christ.

It was then, Dr. Breasted said man first indicated a knowledge of the difference between right and wrong. Texts found inscribed on the stone walls of tombs dating back to 2000 B. C., he said, showed the dawn of conscience and character among the earth's inhabitants.

GASPEE URGED AS R. I. AIRPORT

Providence, R. I., Oct. 9—The selection of Gaspee Point as a municipal airport has been recommended by A. P. Taliaferro, Jr., aeronautic expert of U. S. Dept. of Commerce, who recently made a survey of airport possibilities in Rhode Island.

"Enough area is available to construct a major terminal for land planes, an intermediate station for lighter-than-air craft, and by dredging out the shallow part of the bay contiguous to the point, a first class seaplane terminal can be developed," says Taliaferro in his report.

Coincidently came the announcement from Bourdon Aircraft Corp. of Hillsgrove that because of the failure of the State Airport Commission to select a landing field suitable for both sea and land planes, they have virtually completed negotiations to merge with Viking Flying Boat Co. at New Haven, Ct.

Allen P. Bourdon, president, predicted that the Hillsgrove airport site selected by the State will eventually be abandoned because of unsuitability.

Prof. Ore Promoted

SAY M'DONALD VISIT BENEFIT TO THE U. S.

Stimson Delighted With Result; Premier Is to Sail for Home Oct. 25

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Secretary Stimson today said the conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald "have been most successful and have met with all our anticipations." He said the British and American governments would be greatly benefitted.

Washington, Oct. 9—When Premier Ramsay MacDonald concludes his naval conversations here with President Hoover he will leave for Canada to prepare for his return voyage to England from Quebec October 25 aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of York. Details of Mr. MacDonald's movements indicate that the premier will arrive in Toronto October 15. He will be the principal speaker at the Canadian Club luncheon at the Royal York Hotel on the 16th and will attend an official reception given at the hotel by the provincial government of Ontario.

Mr. MacDonald is due in Ottawa October 17 and will remain there three days to confer on imperial matters with Lord Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, and to attend a state dinner as guest of honor. On October [illegible] Premier MacDonald is expected in Montreal.

Rep. Porter Would End Wars by Starving Nations

Washington, Oct. 9—With talk of peace permeating every section of Washington official life, Rep. Stephen G. Porter (R.) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, today announced that he would seek passage of a resolution "to starve war" by prohibiting shipments of munitions from the United States at the President's discretion.

Embodying a great expansion of the policy now pursued by this government toward Latin America, Rep. Porter would place the United States at the head of a movement to restrict traffic in arms throughout the world.

The resolution, Porter said, would forever take control of the munitions traffic from the hands of those who make a profit out of it and put it in the hands of the government.

HOPE ONLY TO CURB SINKINGS BY SUB BOATS

Neither Hoover Nor MacDonald Expects Total Abolition of Undersea Craft

By JAMES L. WILLIAMS, Jr.

Washington, Oct. 9—Total abolition of submarines has been agreed to by Great Britain and the United States subject to conference with other naval powers. But the total abolition of submarines appears to be in the dim and far distant future.

Neither President Hoover nor Prime Minister MacDonald seriously expects that France, Italy or Japan will join in such an agreement when it is proposed at the coming five-power naval conference in London.

Apparently the purpose of including this proposed agreement in the agenda for the coming conference is to encourage the other participating powers to join with Great Britain and the United States in an agreement to limit submarine tonnage and rigidly restrict the use of the submarine in war against merchant ships.

LORD LEE'S ARGUMENT

It was Lord Lee of Fareham, a member of the British delegation to the Washington conference, who entered on behalf of his government a plea for abolition of submarines. He argued that these vessels were ineffective in attack upon men-of-war and that they were chiefly used in warfare against merchant ships.

But the United States, France, Italy and Japan opposed his plea at that time and refuted his argument by showing that the German submarines early in the Great War constituted a serious menace to the British Great Fleet and actually sank a number of British cruisers.

Lord Lee undertook to reason that because Germany's submarine warfare was conducted ruthlessly and in violation of all the rules of war, the total abolition of submarines was desirable.

AMERICA'S STANDPOINT

The representatives of the opposing powers pointed out that it was equally possible for an army to violate the rules of warfare in the ruthless use of the bayonet, the rifle or the airplane, but that this ruthlessness did not constitute an argument for the abolition of the bayonet, the rifle or the airplane.

Furthermore, the American delegation demonstrated that German submarines' operations off the American coast were conducted without violating the rules of warfare. In fact 20 per cent of the merchant vessels that German submarines attacked off the American coast were given proper warning and ample time for their passengers to escape.

Although the British plea for the total abolition of submarines received no support at the Washington conference from the other participating powers, the United States in conversations leading up to the Geneva conference has since withdrawn its opposition upon the condition that the abolition be agreed to by all other naval powers.

FOR CRUISER PACT

This was done, doubtless in the hope of encouraging an Anglo-American agreement limiting cruisers, and also in the hope that listing this proposal upon the agenda of the Geneva conference would induce France, Italy and Japan to participate. Although Japan joined Great Britain and the United States at Geneva, France and Italy remained away.

Assurances that all the four powers invited to the London conference would accept were received by Great Britain before the formal invitations were issued.

It is safe to assume, however, that the acceptances of France, Italy and Japan have been gladly conditioned upon their notification that any of the discussion of the total abolition of submarines at that conference will be highly academic.

Having made this radical proposal with the approval of the United States, the British government will be in a better position to negotiate with France and Italy in particular, regarding the limitation and possible reduction of submarine tonnage than if the proposal had not been made.

RUMOR THE FLAG STAYS DOWN

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—The reason no American flag fluttered from the steel skeleton of the Board of Trade Building today was the 18th amendment to the Constitution.

The flag was to have been hoisted, marking the placing of the last beams in the structure. Henry A. Rumsey, broker, clubman and chairman of the building committee, watched for hours for the flag to rise.

A worwman came to tell him all was in readiness and that the men were waiting for the drinks. Mr. Rumsey wanted to know what drinks.

"Just before the flag is raised the firm always sends up a round of drinks for everybody," the workman said. "The men wouldn't think of raising the flag without the usual toast."

Paralyzed Courts Seen Under Sheppard Bill

Washington, Oct. 9 (INS)—Enactment of the proposed Sheppard bill, providing punishment for purchasers of bootleg liquor, would force a radical change in the federal government's policy of prohibition enforcement.

Should Congress pass the Sheppard bill officials said that every effort would be made to enforce it, although the prospective task was so great that prohibition experts were frankly at a loss as to how the federal courts and prisons of the country could carry the additional load.

With the federal government now prosecuting only the larger violations, prisons are overcrowded and there are about 25000 cases pending for trial in the federal courts. In some cases the U. S. attorneys have even asked the prohibition authorities to bring in only the major cases in which convictions appeared certain, because of the heavy congestion.

If the federal government is charged with responsibility of prosecuting purchases of liquor it will necessitate an enormous reinforcement of the dry forces and an expansion of federal court and prison facilities far beyond that now contemplated by the justice department.

Some experts said that the law might have a wholesome psychological effect in cutting down the number of bootleg customers. It was pointed out that the buyers of liquor, as a rule, are persons of better social and business standing than the sellers, would hesitate to risk arrest if real, effective enforcement were provided.

New 'Chemical Eye' to Show Dirt on Skin

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—A device for which countless mothers have sighed, that might be used for junior to read on a gauge when he has his neck clean, is on exhibition today at the National Electrical Exposition.

It is a super-sensitive chemical eye, shown by the New York Museum of the Peaceful Arts. The "eye" is a small tube, standing alongside a dial, both occupying barely a square foot of space.

The eye transforms reflected light directly into electricity, which swings an arrow across the dial face. A perfectly clean hand or neck has a fixed place on the dial reading. But even a very little dirt on the skin reduces the light, and the arrow registers a lower numeral on the dial because less electricity is produced.

Young electrical wizards could install dials in their mothers' rooms for long-distance readings. They could also make easily paper reflectors that would register the equivalent of a clean face.

A demonstration of hand cleansing will be installed at the museum.

LOBBY PROBERS TURN TO TARIFF

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Senate Lobby Investigating Committee probably will meet tomorrow to organize and map out a course for its tremendous job.

Senator Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas, the chairman, has announced that first attention will be given to the activities of those seeking to influence the pending tariff measure.

The chairman also desires to confine the inquiry to those organizations and individuals who are actually engaged in attempts to influence legislation, without touching the other group, for the time being, which is engaged solely in the field of propaganda.

FREEDOM FOR PHILIPPINES HALTS TARIFF

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—The tariff bill was threatened with indefinite delay today by the injection into Senate debate of the question of Philippine independence.

The issue was revived by Sen. King (D), Utah, proposing an amendment calling for a proclamation of independence for the Philippines as soon as a Philippine constitutional convention, which the amendment would authorize had set up a form of government for the islands.

Immediately, Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and advocate of independence for the islands, was on his feet with a warning to proceed slowly on such an important matter. Sen. Bingham (R), Ct., said the question would take several days, probably weeks before a decision could be reached.

Borah said he favored independence for the Philippines and had voted for such a course in the past, but added that what concerned him was the detailed machinery necessary to arrange for independence and whether such independence, once granted, was to be guaranteed.

The King amendment would provide that after independence had been proclaimed, the United States should invite other nations to recognize the islands' new political status and that the American government would withdraw military forces from the islands within six months.

[illegible] amendment was offered as a substitute for the [illegible] proposal for calling an international conference to draw up a treaty of independence and also for levying tariffs against Philippine imports now free, and the return of the revenue to the Philippine treasury until more autonomous government were given the islands.

Market Truckmen Get Increase of $5

New York, Oct. 9 (INS)—Trucks heavily loaded with fresh fruit and vegetables again were rumbling over New York's streets today as a result of the settlement of the market truck drivers' strike.

The drivers accepted $5 increase in weekly wage, a nine-hour day and $1 an hour for overtime instead of the eight-hour day with time and a half for overtime and no increase, which they originally demanded.

RAYON STRIKE THREAT UP TO U. S. AGENTS

Elizabethton, Tenn., Oct. 9 (AP)—Textile union leaders planned to submit formally today to the federal Department of Labor and to their national organization a report that union members had voted 1120 to 64 to strike unless differences with the two rayon mills here were adjusted.

Announcing the result of the count, Paul Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, said he was inclined to believe the differences would be settled without a strike.

Aymon explained that after telegraphing the result of the ballot to the Department of Labor and to Thomas McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, several days must elapse before action can be taken.

The state president said he believed the vote represented the real sentiment of the workers, as against the result of a ballot taken by the plants last month. The plant ballot resulted in a heavy majority against a strike.

N.Y. CENTRAL TO CUT A MELON

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Stockholders of the New York Central Railroad today were offered rights to subscribe to 356,699 additional shares of stock at $100 each in the ratio of one share for each 13 held on November 19.

The $35,669,900 realized from sale of the stock will be used for improvement and expansion of the company's facilities and for general corporate purposes.

On the basis of today's early selling price of $226 for New York Central on the New York Stock Exchange the rights were worth $9 each. They expire January 31.

The offering is subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

MAYOR WALKER LOAN STORY IS GIVEN LIE

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Branding as an "absolute falsehood" the story of a [illegible] loan to Mayor James J. Walker by the management of the Central Park Casino, Jack Cohen, the reputed informant, today brought the names of former Governor William Sulzer and Alan Fox into the controversy.

The story of the alleged loan was told in the form of an inquiry by former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, mayoralty candidate of the Square Deal Party, who named Cohen as his informant.

Denial that Mayor Walker ever had borrowed any money from the Casino management was made by Sidney Solomon, the lessee, and the mayor, who challenged Enright to rephrase his inquiry so as to make it actionable under the libel laws. This Enright declined to do.

Cohen, former house detective at the Casino, in a statement said Sulzer sent for him about six weeks ago and said he wanted him to meet a "big shot" in the Republican party by the name of Alan Fox, who, he was told by Sulzer, was backing Enright's campaign.

He said Fox asked whether they couldn't "hang something" on Mayor Walker. Cohen said he told Fox he knew nothing about Mayor Walker at the Casino.

Last Thursday, he said, Sulzer again called him and sent him to Fox, who questioned him in the presence of three reputed newspapermen about the management of the Casino. He said he knew nothing about the alleged loan until he read it in the newspapers the next day.

JAIL BROTHER OF AL CAPONE

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—Ralph (Bottles) Capone, brother of Al (Scarface) Capone, now in a Philadelphia jail, was in a cell today, a federal prisoner. The charge is that Capone attempted to defraud the government in the matter of his 1927 income tax report.

Bond was fixed at $5,000. Capone said it would be several days before he could raise that sum, and he gave his attorney the diamonds he was wearing and his tickets to today's World Series baseball game.

The government contends "Bottles" Capone banked $271,000 in 1927 and later declared himself unable to pay back income taxes of $5662.75. He offered to compromise at $1000, and when the offer was refused he declared himself insolvent.

Backs New Highway

Leominster, Oct. 9—The Worcester Chamber of Commerce has announced it will heartily support a project for an improved highway between that city and Manchester, N. H. The highway would run from Worcester to Leominster, to Townsend, Brookline, N. H., Milford and Manchester.

CANADA TO DAM RUM TO U. S.

Ottawa, Oct. 9 (AP)—Refusal of customs clearances for liquor shipments for the United States is foreseen by government officials here who profess to know the attitude of Premier MacKenzie King and his cabinet.

Although there was no announcement regarding the subject at the close of a cabinet meeting, officials said they believed the ministry had definitely decided to refuse permits.

"There has been a difference of opinion in the cabinet," one official said, "but no definite split on the subject."

He added that the Premier was among those who favor the ban on liquor clearances.

Minister, Run-down in Health, Gains 7 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

[illegible] writes: "After a [illegible] illness I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a three weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a [illegible] tired person to a strong, [illegible] man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it [illegible] effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and [illegible] values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. [illegible] gas or bloating, no harm[illegible].

So certain and quick are the amazing health benefits of Ironized Yeast that the small amount you pay for the first [illegible] will be promptly refunded by your own druggist or the manufacturer if you are not delighted.

MILK 'BOODLE' PAYS $110,969 IN A YEAR

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Larry Fay, head of the New York Milk Chain Association, which is being investigated by the state on charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade, has admitted that during his presidency the organization's income was $110,969.36, while the expenses were a trifle more than $7000, plus a pay roll of $1000 a week.

Fay received all that was left over after expenses.

During the recent "milk war" it is charged the organization demanded $4.40 a can from dealers. Evidence has been introduced showing that when milk dealers refused to join the chain they were beaten.

The grand jury held no hearing today, but sessions will be resumed tomorrow. Subpoenas were being served today on 20 witnesses.

Pope a Great-Uncle as Niece Has Son

Rome, Oct. 9 (AP)—Pope Pius has become a great-uncle.

Marchesa Maria Luisa Persichetti Ugolini, daughter of the Pontiff's brother, Fermo Ratti, has given birth to a son. The Pope himself officiated at his niece's marriage.

Ending Prison Term, Faces Another Here

William E. Thackeray, former resident of the South End, now finishing the last few days of a [illegible] sentence in Sing Sing prison, N. Y., for manslaughter, will be brought back to Boston next week to face a [illegible] charge.

[illegible] wanted here in connection with the death of James Moore, [illegible] at 335 Tremont st., South End, on May 10, 1924.

"We Will" Mystery Fliers on 10th Day

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—The endurance plane "Chicago—We Will" soared into its 10th day at 6:52 a. m. with word from its two mystery pilots that both plane and pilots were capable of remaining at least 10 days more in the air.

At 6:52 o'clock the plane had been aloft 216 hours and had passed by 5½ hours the half-way mark of the 421-hour refueling endurance record of the "St. Louis Robin."

FINDS BOSTON SLOW IN USING AIR MAIL

By GEORGE W. HAMBLIN

Earl Crabb and Jimmy Dickens came to Boston from their field at Newburyport with a brand new Stinson-Detroiter, powered with a 225-horsepower Wright J-6 engine.

Both boys were formerly connected with the Amesbury Airways, but they resigned from that outfit, stepped out and bought the new plane, and formed the Middlesex Valley Airways Company.

Crabb went out to Eddie Stinson's factory in Detroit and saw his ship being finished. He was checked out in it by Eddie himself, and flew to Newburyport in 5½ hours' flying time.

He had hardly landed and stretched his legs, when Jimmy Dickens brought on a flock of passengers. The plane was filled, and Crabb flew till dark, with three passengers per trip. That's making the airplane start right in paying for itself.

Dhen the duo, accompanied by Jimmy's wife and Herb Waters, landed at the Boston airport they were immediately surrounded by the boys, all eager to see the latest creation of America's best known aircraft manufacturer.

Bill Saunders and George Cornell, mechanics for East Coast Aircraft Sales Corp., Wright service dealers for New England, hopped over from Muller field, Revere, to examine the motor. Bill, a former Royal Flying Corps pilot-mechanic, pronounced the Whirlwind in good condition. Then the newspapermen were taken into the sky.

The Stinson performed perfectly. When a ship will take off with full gas tanks, a full complement of passengers and climb to 2000 feet without once dropping the nose to pick up speed, it's some ship.

Colonial Air Transport comes to bat with a lusty wail about the unairmindedness of business Boston in regard to the air mail. Colonial states that the mail loads out of Boston for September increased only 14 per cent over September, 1928, while the incoming loads jumped 195 per cent over the same month last year.

The same dispatch from Colonial inclosed a letter from W. F. Augustine, vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank. Mr. Augustine declares that his institution has been using the air mail regularly and finds the service of great value.

Lieut. E. K. Warburton of Brighton, came home for a short visit, comfortably seated in a Curtiss Hawk. The Hawk, powered with a 450 horsepower Curtiss D-12 engine, brought all the gang out onto the field.

Carlie Emerson, pilot for Skyways, went over to the army hangars and gave the visiting pilot the "welcome home." Charlie later disclosed that he and Warburton were classmates at Brooks Field, the army primary flying school in Texas.

Al Sherman, chief of maintenance for Curtiss, will desert the life of a bachelor this evening, when he takes as his bride Miss Ellen Simpson, of Whitman, at her home. A large delegation of employes of Curtiss in Boston and Martha's Vineyard are expected to be present.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Mme. Curie Leaves Paris for U. S. Visit

Paris, Oct. 9 (AP)—Madame Curie, the world's most famous woman scientist and co-discoverer of radium, left here today aboard the boat train for Cherbourg to catch the Ile de France for New York.

Madame Curie goes to the United States to receive a second gram of radium from her American admirers. She will be a guest at the White House and attend the dedication of Hepburn Hall of Chemistry, St. Lawrence University.

Withington's Hand to Be Amputated

Honolulu, Oct. 9 (AP)—Private advices from Sydney, Australia, say Dr. Paul Withington, explorer, who has been suffering from septicemia, has reached that city and that amputation of his left hand may be necessary.

Dr. Withington, former Harvard athlete and now a resident of Honolulu, contracted the poisoning while working as a member of a scientific expedition in Northwestern Australia.

Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Smith of Wellesley Farms, and by three sons, William F. Horrigan, Edward A. Horrigan, Jr., and Joseph E. Horrigan of the Boston Herald. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

Bomb Trolley Car in New Orleans Strike

New Orleans, Oct. 9 (AP)—In the face of a mass meeting of union street car men called for tonight to review the 100-day-old strike situation dynamiters before daybreak today set off a terrific explosion under a street car at Pontchartrain boulevard and Dante st. that rocked that section of the city. The car crew escaped unhurt.

The blasting derailed the car, tore up trackage and scattered steel rails and splinters in all directions.

FLAG WINNERS ARE BACK FROM WORLD TOUR

New York, Oct. 9—Fresh from a three-and-one-half-month tour of the globe four happy young Americans returned to these shores today. They are the high school students who were declared national champions in the country-wide flag contest of the United States Flag Association.

Bringing the greetings of the youth of all the nations they visited, to whom in turn they had conveyed the good will of the youth of America, they arrived on the S. S. George Washington, New York, through Mayor Walker, who earned them here.

The quartet is composed of Mary McGonigal of Troy, N. Y., Robert L. Sullivan of Scranton, Alma Groves of Byromville, Ga., and Merle Clarke of Soulte Ste. Marie, Mich. Since June they have crossed three oceans, visiting the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Japan, China, the Malay Peninsula, India, Egypt and all of the capitals of Europe.

They were received by dignitaries everywhere. In Rome they had an audience with the Pope, who blessed the American flag and a high school flag carried by young Sullivan.

The parents of all four came to New York to greet them. A group of Camp Fire Girls presented Miss McGonigal with a bouquet.

Watch Victim of Mystery Attack

Sheriff David O. Walton of Androscoggin County, Maine, and a local druggist, whose name was withheld, are closely watching the condition of Bryan Downey, alias Alfred Downing, who is at Haymarket Relief Station, suffering injuries received in an attack on Temple st., West End, Sunday morning.

The sheriff and his companion today will confer with Inspector James Dennessey of the homicide bureau. Police say Downing was released from the Eastport, Me., jail two weeks ago. They will not discuss the case.

Hold 14 Without Bail in Texas Vice War

Borger, Tex., Oct. 9 (AP)—While military authorities carried forward their campaign to smash the alleged crime ring, Dist. Atty. Calhoun and the legal staff of the "Army of Occupation" administering martial law prepared today for a court battle over the right to hold prisoners without bond.

Cure Thumb Suckers By Putting Them in Front Mirror

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Children addicts to sucking their thumbs dislike to watch themselves do it.

That is the conclusion Dr. Samuel J. Lewis of Detroit reported to the American Dental Association after five years spent in developing the first scientific evidence that definitely blames the habit for deformation of a child's deciduous, or early teeth.

Children forced to perform the habit in front of a mirror for 10 minutes were successfully cured. Malformation of teeth will correct itself, he said, if the thumb-sucking is stopped before child is five years of age.

Miss Louise F. Paine Being Presented at Party in Weston Home Tonight

Miss Rosamond Holton and Miss Annette Hollis Will Be Feted Oct. 22

MISS ROSAMOND HOLTON and Miss Annette Hollis are to be feted on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at a luncheon given for them by Mrs. Albert M. Creighton and Miss Constance Creighton, the latter a debutante of last season. A hundred and fifty buds are to attend this party, which takes place at the Algonquin Club. Mrs. Creighton and her two daughters, the Misses Peggy and Constance Creighton, are at Hot Springs at present and will remain there for another week.

MISS LOUISE F. PAINE IS being presented this evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant Paine, of Weston, at a small house dance. Miss Anne Robbins, one of last year's debutantes, has been invited to receive the guests also. Miss Paine will be charming in a robe de style of brocade, combined with white and gold tulle. Her mother will be gowned in black velvet. The large usher corps, headed by the debutante's brother, John B. Paine, Jr., includes Francis Blake, Kenneth Robbins, Jr., Reid Harwood, Joseph Frothingham, Daniel Crockett, William Youngman, William Shurtleff, Harold Perry, Peter Berry, Theodore Francis, Austin Field, Winthrop Churchill, Brainerd Taylor, Hiram Sibley, Roger Warner and James de Normandie.

MRS. JAMES C. HOPKINS of Wychwood, Dover and Boston, is on board the Conte Biancamano sailing today for Italy. A double errand takes her abroad. One, to attend the wedding of her niece and godchild, Miss Jocelyne de Blois Bush of Boston, and the Marquis Fabrizio Catalango Gonzaga, to be solemnized in Rome on October 21. Miss Bush is the daughter of Mrs. Henry S. Bush, formerly of Chestnut Hill, a sister of Lucretia Goddard Bush, well-known opera prima donna.

THE SECOND ERRAND TAKing Mrs. Hopkins to foreign shores is to see her daughter, Mary, installed in school at Lausanne, Switzerland, where she is to study household economics. Another daughter, Miss Charlotte Hopkins, is to make her debut on November 21. She will be presented at tea at the Hopkins Marlborough st. residence.

MISS KATHERYN BUTMAN is wearing her mother's wedding gown today when she becomes the bride of Roy H. Booth, Jr., at a small home ceremony. She is wearing a tulle veil and is carrying a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. There are no attendants. Dr. Tyler of All Saints' Church, Brookline, is officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Butman of Brookline. She attended the Brimmer school. Mr. Booth was in the Harvard '27 class and a member of the Hasty Pudding and Varsity Clubs, the Institute of 1770 and the Pi Eta. He is associated with the National Shawmut Bank. Mr. and Mrs. Booth are to make their home at Englewood ave., Brookline.

Mrs. Oscar Crosby Sewall (Nancy Baldwin), daughter of Mrs. Margaret French Baldwin of the Myles Standish apartments, is leaving today for the Fiji Islands on her wedding trip.

MRS. RICHARD ELY DANIELSON of Boston and Groton is among the few women to have entries in the Myopia Hunt Club's race meeting. This annual fall classic will take place on the approaching holiday at Mr. Bradley W. Palmer's Topsfield estate. Mrs. Danielson's entry, Kilgree, won its maiden race at Norfolk in 1927, ridden by Bayard Tuckerman. Bel Mar, owned by Mrs. John S. Lawrence, is entered in the hunt team race. Other prominent women, whose horses are to take part, are Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston and Beverly Farms, Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Hamilton, and Mrs. William Dexter.

MISS KATHERINE HURD of Milton sails for Europe October 26 aboard the America. She is the daughter of the E. L. Hurds. Miss Hurd is going to attend school in Paris until June, when she returns to this country. Her formal bow to society will be made next season. She is a graduate of Milton Academy.

MISS ELEANOR STRICKLAND will leave for California on October 27, whither she will accompany her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney T. Strickland of Dudley st., Brookline. Miss Strickland is one of those recently elected a [illegible] member of the Junior League. Invitations have just been received from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Manley Ives and Miss Alice Ives for a tea on Sunday, October 20, at their home on Highland ave., in Winchester. They have recently returned from their summer residence in Annisquam.

MR. AND MRS. CORBY FOX (Emily Wentworth, formerly of Boston) are making their home in Washington D. C., this winter, having spent the last year in Paris. Mr. Fox is studying for the diplomatic service.

MR. AND MRS. BENJAMIN A. G. THORNDIKE will live on Longfellow rd., in Cambridge when they leave their summer home at Nahant.

MANY YOUNG COUPLES are making their homes in Brookline. Mr. and Mrs. G. Winthrop (Emily Evatt) are living on Washington st. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Terry Collens (Eleanor Perkins) reside on Beaconsfield rd. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hooper (Ann Hall) live on Washington st. when they return to town from Cohasset where they have been staying with Mrs. Hooper's mother, Mrs. Henry L. Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barns (Phoebe Washburn) will likewise be Brookline residents.

FEDERATION TO DISCUSS CHILDREN

A mothercraft conference, sponsored by the State Federation department, will take place at the Copley-Plaza, October 29, at 1:45. This is the first imposing meeting of this kind ever held in the city and department officials anticipate an unprecedented response.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, former General Federation president, and "mother" of the American Home department of the Federation, is to be the principal guest and speaker. Announcement of her acceptance to attend the conference is made today by Mrs. May Dickinson Bliss Kimball, state chairman, Mothercraft and Child Welfare department.

The conference is to be followed by a reception and tea. Those interested in child welfare work are invited to attend. New England States are to be represented and clubs which entertain this activity as a major consideration will send delegates to the conference.

President Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College is to address the gathering. Other speakers include Dr. M. L. Dies of the State Department of Public Health, and Dr. John B. Hawes. The story of mothercraft will be told through the mothercraft playlet presented by the pupils of the Winthrop junior high school and the reading of a prize mothercraft essay written by Marjorie Bean of Braintree.

Mothercraft headquarters at 180 Commonwealth ave. have the tickets and the information.

Since the introduction of the activity into the club it has developed and grown with bounding success. Responsible in this state for the splendid work is Mrs. Kimball whose untiring efforts and concentrated energies have brought about this result.

Mrs. Miner H. A. Evans is vice-chairman of the state department. Others of the committee include Mrs. Lewis W. Arnold, Mrs. Edward L. Hadley, Mrs. Sidney A. Clark, Mrs. C. R. Elder, Mrs. George T. Hart, Jr., Mrs. Olie L. Humphrey, Mrs. Selden E. James, Mrs. Harold P. Johnson, Mrs. Daavid Robertson, Mrs. Alden R. Taylor and Mrs. Edward P. Worth.

BOSTON SQUARE AND COMPASS CLUB

The social affairs of the Boston Square and Compass Club opened with a whist for members and ladies. Mrs. Delbert C. Shepard was in charge. One of the great annual events of the club is its annual meeting, which this year occurs next Saturday night.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY, CANADIAN CLUB

A luncheon bridge of the Women's Auxiliary, Canadian Club takes place at 12:30 at the Hotel Westminster. Mrs. Wallace C. Williams is in charge. The club is composed of members from the great north country: Quebec with its quaint intermingling of races and its fresh wholesome countryside, and Ontario with its broad, fertile, orderly lands bordering on the Great Lakes. This organization is a powerful influence for good among the women Canadians residing in Boston. The club is particularly devoted to philanthropy among its own, and the giving of social life and pleasure to the lonely through its united and patriotic loyalty to their adopted country.

Short Jacket to Be Well Liked This Winter

Paris Bureau of the Boston Evening American

PARIS, France, Oct. 9—Put-and-take may not be a very poetic term, but it expresses most adequately the modern trend of the mode. For do we not observe that so many of the outfits designed for evening wear, especially, have taken length from the jacket and put it to the skirt of the frock?

The little evening jacket, warm, snug and comfortable, is one of fashion's favorites this winter. Such little coats were extremely popular during the summer, and were a natural complement to the short trailing lines of the silhouette that is now firmly established.

We show today a delightful example of the short jacket for winter wear. This coats is in very heavy lustrous black satin. It is collared in ermine, and added warmth and comfort is obtained by a lining of the same luxurious pelt. The sleeves show a very novel note. Cartridge folds are used to gather in the extreme width of the full sleeves at both wrists and shoulders. The model is from the collection of Irene Dana.

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)

MAGGY ROUFF is one of the couturieres who have kept the waistline at its normal moorings. It does not need more than a glance at the lovely formal afternoon gown here shown, to recognize it as a model from this atelier, for it follows faithfully the prevailing silhouette as typified by this distinguished designer. The lines are distinctly princess, with a slight suggestion of soft folds at the normal waistline.

THE very full and graceful flounce that hangs in such becoming folds, starts just above the knee and is composed of a series of pointed godets of varying length. Diagonal empiecements form the body of the frock, a technical feature that is responsible for the new closely fitted models. Jade green and silver lame georgette is used to make this frock, which is charming expression of the latest tendency of the mode.

AVOID all danger of offense and embarrassment! . . . this new, deodorizing pad makes it easy to be safe.

Kotex offers the final refinement of sanitary protection . . . complete deodorization. What a relief this is, from old fears and worries!

You can depend on Kotex to save you from any possibility of offense in this way, just as you depend on it to save you from many other embarrassments.

Special features of Kotex

Kotex is never conspicuous. It is rounded and tapered, and designed to avoid all conspicuous bulk. Wear Kotex confidently with sheer or close-draped gowns.

Kotex completely does away with old-time fuss and laundering. It disposes instantly, without embarrassment.

Always light and cool

Kotex, too, is so wonderfully comfortable, so light and cool and dainty! Its absorbent filler, Cellucotton absorbent wadding, is selected by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals in preference to any other material for absorptive use. Doctors use it even for the most important surgical work—preferring it for its absorbency and vastly greater comfort.

Kotex actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture! So it protects completely without bulk or weight.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

BECAUSE platinum is superior to white gold in so many ways, we have made a special effort to secure some 10% iridio-platinum rings, consistent with Long's quality, at $150. The solitaires illustrated are the result—and we present them as October Diamond Days (Oct. 3-11) draw to a close.

Advantages of platinum over white gold:
Platinum is whiter and stays white longer and better.
Diamonds are safer set in platinum.
Finer work can be wrought in platinum.

The New Steinite Set . . . and Amazing Price

$118 LESS TUBES

THERE have been other radios which were great in their day—but they have usually been very expensive. There have been low prices—but they did not buy fine radio. It remained for Steinite to produce a thrilling achievement in radio design and offer it at a sensationally low price.

The new Steinite is a wonder of the radio world—so is its price! The performance of the new Steinite is a subject of universal admiration. Its price is a modern miracle!

Steinite's research department years on the lead, has conceived and produced this remarkable radio. Steinite's tremendous factory, its mass production methods made possible by an overwhelming demand, its one-profit manufacture—has made it possible to offer this set to the American radio public at a price all can pay.

It was Steinite which set the pace 7 years ago with the first low priced electric set—and it is Steinite which is setting the pace today with its SUPER screen grid radio at $118

The features of the new Steinite are listed at the right. Read them carefully—with the features offered by any other radio. Do not be content with anything less—for all the new and desirable things in radio are among them. One word by you, made our comparison, and like thousands of others, will no longer be willing to pay more than you need for fine radio.

Steinite's new set at once won the recommended attention. Its engaging price has earned the approval of every fine radio owner.

TRIADORS AT RADIO SHOW TOMORROW

Through the courtesy of the Triad Manufacturing Company of Pawtucket, Joe Rines and his Triadors will be heard in a broadcast direct from the stage of the Boston Garden tomorrow evening from 8.30 to 9. Later the Triadors will be heard in a program of dance music from the stage in the exhibition hall.

Joe Rines

This broadcast will be under the personal direction of Rines and will be made in the same manner as it is done in the studio. Several of the tricks of broadcasting will be shown, especially that of how Rines sings into a microphone. Those who witness the broadcast from the Garden will not be able to hear Rines' voice three feet from the microphone, but those tuned to WNAC will hear it with the usual clarity.

Rines and the Triadors are heard over the National Broadcasting Company's Blue Network every Friday night and over WNAC and WEAN every Sunday evening.

A product of New England and one of the pioneers in radio broadcasting, Joe Rines has in a few years become one of the most popular orchestra leaders in the east. Through his personal appearances with the orchestra in all parts of New England, in the past two years the famous Rines Rhythm has drawn thousands to the dance halls in which he has played.

After the performance, the Triadors will board the midnight train for New York, where they will make recordings on the following morning and play their regular program over WBZ and a national network that evening.

NEW CIRCUIT IN FADA

A wonderful addition to the Fada line has just been perfected, a three screen grid receiver with a brand new type of circuit, housed in that most beautiful cabinet which also houses the popular "Thirty Five" model.

This new Vibra control 35B uses three type 224 screen-grid tubes in three stages of tuned radio frequency amplification, two type 227 ... tubes, one of which is an improved power detector ... the other in first stage ... frequency amplification, two type 245 power tubes in push-pull amplification in final audio stages ... one type 281 half wave rectifier. The radio frequency circuits are unique in that they employ ... impedance coupling which assures maximum uniform amplification.

... and sensitivity ... to suit local installation ... This new set also includes a ... adjuster by which the ... can be turned ... under varying ... conditions.

Its output is excellent both from the standpoints of volume and tone fidelity, as well as the selectivity and sensitivity which has been brought to a very high degree of excellence. The list price is as announced, $255 less tubes.

In the already popular 35 which has two screen-grid tubes and which lists at $245, no improvement has been found possible.

Another model which will be housed in the same beautiful cabinet will be known as the 3.0. This comprises the most satisfactory one screen-grid receiver and the same 7C speaker which is used in other models. Four type 227 tubes, two of them in the first two stages of radio frequency amplification, one as a power detector and one in the first audio stage, are employed, and in addition, one type 224 or 324 screen-grid tube is used in the third stage of radio frequency and two type 245 tubes occur in push-pull amplification in the final audio stage. This outstanding set is priced at $220.

With this announcement an opportunity is offered to select one, two or three screen-grid chassis at moderate prices and contained in the same popular beautiful cabinet.

A Romance of Love of a Girl and a Rich Man

CHAPTER 36

DENISE [illegible]

She smeared the cold cream [illegible] on her pretty features [illegible]

Then came a [illegible]

"Toinette, get me some ice" [illegible] Denise peered anxiously [illegible]

Enlarged pores on [illegible] were not [illegible] be terrible.

"[illegible] Malvey [illegible] terrible."

Corinna Dr[illegible] was [illegible] petals of a [illegible]

Denise spent any amount of money in her beauty parlor and then would undo the good work by innumerable cocktail [illegible]

For Malvey's [illegible] would achieve [illegible] for his [illegible] out some of the [illegible] stant drinking.

When one [illegible] body [illegible]

[illegible]

Denise [illegible] times [illegible] and involved [illegible] balls.

Toinette [illegible] there was a [illegible] maid's rather homely [illegible] watched [illegible] vating.

"Ugh! Ouch! [illegible] sharply. [illegible] standing there [illegible] Get out fresh [illegible] and be quick about [illegible] the peach [illegible] use [illegible] and match the color of the dress I've laid out on the bed."

"Mademoiselle wants the yellow underthings?" Toinette paused by the open sachet-lined drawer of the bureau, looking stolid.

"Of course I do! Ouch! this ice against her face certainly was chilly.

Toinette, with careful fingers set out the delicate lemon-tinted garments that were frail as flower petals.

Denise got up, holding the lump of ice wrapped in a towel. She went over to the chaise longue, where her things had been placed, and gave an irritated exclamation.

"Not these, you fool! They're the chiffon underset for my new Lanvin dance dress, and quite unsuitable for a sports frock! Anyone but an idiot would know I meant the yellow silks with the violet in each corner! See. There!"

Toinette bent hastily forward and lifted out the required garments.

And as she did so Denise spitefully, albeit dexterously, thrust the lump of ice down the back of the maid's dress.

Toinette gave a hysterical scream, wriggling violently as that the frozen mass slipped lower and lower down her back.

Denise laughed delightedly. "That's waking you up—"

Toinette burst into tears of shock and nervousness.

* * *

The ice and the success of the joke she had played on her maid had brought a flash to Denise's cheeks so that even the rouge seemed unnecessary.

She sat down in front of her triple mirror, feeling triumphant.

"I've no patience with fools!" Toinette had [illegible] weeping.

Despite the [illegible] Denise put a touch of color [illegible] her cheek bones. Dry [illegible] was not the usual greasy adhesive [illegible]

With a bit of cotton wool, she then dabbed over her nose and cheeks and chin a faintly pink liquid powder.

When it had dried came a fluff of the puff, and an application of a gluey mixture to her lashes . . .

This last took a little time, in that each lash must be separated by a pin, if the effect were to look natural.

Results justified her labor.

Next, with a little tube of lipsalve, Denise accentuated the red curve of her mouth. Her lips were rather thin for beauty—"indicative of bad temper," someone had said.

That must be remedied. She worked artistically.

Then came a brushing of her golden hair—this was Toinette's duty. Confound the foolish woman to have gone off weeping!

Where were the electric curling irons, so that the lank ends might be fixed into fascinating little ringlets?

Came the crunch of a footstep on the gravel underneath her window and the soft whirring of the doorbell.

* * *

"I wish to give notice, Mademoiselle," announced Denise's maid as she returned to her mistress' bedroom, her eyes red with weeping.

Denise felt a little dash of compunction mingled with impatience.

"Don't be foolish, Toinette. I was only having a joke with you. You take offense so easily." She was manipulating the curling irons rather uncertainly.

Toinette said, very gravely,—"I do not find it a joke to have ice put down my back and to be continually reprimanded. I have my pride and I do not wish to

BIGELOW SURPRISED.

Ninety per cent of the registration cancellations made by the registrar today, he revealed, are made [illegible] non-payment of installments on policies.

He further declared the state [illegible] a cancellation of a policy of an improper driver, would be [illegible] its recommendations that the offending driver lose his license to operate.

Representative Albert Bigelow of the commission expressed surprise over Goodwin's remarks. He said he thought the companies would want to see the reckless operators taken off the highways.

SCORES INSTALMENT PLAN

The ex-registrar replied it would seem so, but as a matter of fact they let the offending driver "shop around among the other companies for a new policy."

The former registrar also scored the present policy of paying for insurance on the instalment plan. This plan, he said, had added between 40 to 50 employes at the registry and also made possible the condition where a man operates illegally by making but one or two payments on his policy.

Goodwin then turned his guns on the American Automobile Association, which, through Theodore P. Mose of Washington, was advocating the substitution of a financial responsibility law for the present Massachusetts compulsory plan.

He accused the triple A organization of working with the insurance companies all over the country to give the Massachusetts law a "black eye." He said the association did its best to ruin the summer business by advising [illegible] tourists of the trouble [illegible] would have to go to if they [illegible] this state because of the [illegible] law.

[illegible] 1,000,000 policies [illegible] and if you attempt to repeal [illegible] law you will hear from the [illegible] who want total protection against automobile operators," he warned the committee.

ONLY 37 x 32½ INCHES
Cooks with Gas
THE UTILITY MODEL

This compact new Glenwood range is only a few inches wider than an ordinary bridge table, yet it combines all the advantages of the most up-to-date gas range with an additional section for heating the kitchen in cold weather.

Most ranges of this type are not only much larger but much more expensive. The Utility Glenwood requires only 37 x 32½ inches of floor space but it gives you an 18-inch-square gas oven, a new patented broiler, four gas burners and two extra 8 inch covers in the heating section.

The whole range is beautifully enameled inside and out, so that even the lining of the oven is easy to keep clean. The Utility Model has the Glenwood AutomatiCook as standard equipment. This device, which measures and controls the heat for all your oven cooking, is a wonderful convenience when you are busy with other things.

If you live beyond the city gas mains, Pyrofax Gas Service will enable you to enjoy this new Glenwood just the same. Ask us about it.

SEES HIS IDEA USED AFTER A 30-YEAR WAIT

[illegible]

PICTURED ON PLAN

[illegible]

In the interim he had been one of the world's most persistent salesmen, with nothing to sell but that idea and no profit for himself save a sense of public service.

He had plans and blue prints illustrating the rapid transit extension drawn up. He began an intensive campaign to [illegible] the attention of city councillors, legislators, newspaper editors, almost anybody who would listen to him.

He bought himself a magic lantern [illegible] illustrating his ideas. He gave illustrated lectures in his own home or anywhere else he could command an audience. He made the rounds of state departments and city offices so often that when they would [illegible] would frown and [illegible].

LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE

is a valiant aid in supporting the poultry industry. For chicken — fried, roasted, broiled, fricassee, creamed, a la King, croquettes or salad, Lea & Perrins' Sauce presents a means for making each dish a completely satisfying one. And for a roast chicken don't forget to season the stuffing. Make plenty of it for there'll be demands for repeat orders, especially from the young folks.

LEA & PERRINS
241 West St., N. Y.
Write for our new free recipe book

CHICKEN a la KING

2 cups cooked chicken, cubed.
½ cup cut mushrooms.
1 green pepper chopped.
1 cup cream.
4 tablespoons butter.
4 tablespoons flour.
1 cup milk. salt.
1 teaspoon Lea & Perrins' Sauce.

Melt butter over direct heat and saute mushrooms and peppers for 5 minutes. Stir in flour and gradually add milk and cream, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Place over hot water, add chicken, cover and cook, stirring occasionally until chicken is heated through. Add Lea & Perrins' Sauce and serve on toast.

E. E. Clive to Take Part in New Copley Mystery

In casting "The Creaking Chair," the farcical mystery which E. E. Clive will stage at the Copley next week several new players have been engaged for some of the principal roles, including Olive Reeves Smith, [illegible] Mitchell and Rosalind Russell.

Mae F[illegible], long a favorite at the Copley, will also appear.

"The Creaking Chair" opens next Monday for a limited engagement. It is presented in three acts and will be staged under the personal direction of [illegible] Clive, who also appears in the company, furnishing a major portion of the comedy contained in the play.

In accordance with the policy of the Copley, the usual Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees will be given.

ON Saturday will come a number of changes. The New B. F. Keith's will offer "Four Devils," a tale of circus life with the enchanting Janet Gaynor, Farrell MacDonald, Mary Duncan, Charles Morton, Nancy Drexel and Barry Norton. The four Publix houses including the Scollay will screen "Hard to Get" with Jack Oakie, Dorothy Mackaill, Louise Fazenda and Charles Delaney.

• • •

LEATRICE JOY is coming in person to the Keith-Albee. The film feature will be "Big Time," a story of the stage and Hollywood. Next Monday Loew's State has the lively and superb "Hollywood Revue," with about [illegible] the M-G-M stars. Loew's Orpheum has "Three Live Ghosts." At the Fenway because of the crowds wishing to see Jeanne Eagels in her last film "Jealousy," that picture will probably be held over another week.

From the beginning of its Boston engagement at the New B. F. Keith's the "Cock-Eyed World" is declared to have broken all Boston records for [illegible] Sunday, one and two weeks' attendance and gross receipts [illegible] approximately. During the first week's engagement this Fox [illegible] was seen and heard by 141,321 people, who paid nearly the amount of the annual salary of the President of the United States to see it. The average daily attendance was above 14,000.

In the four weeks' engagement that "The Cock-Eyed World" played at the Roxy Theater in New York 978,121 people paid $983,151 to view this production. The average daily attendance was 34,931 and the receipts even higher. Only three cities in the United States have populations greater than the total Roxy Theater attendance on "The Cock-Eyed World."

The picture broke all records for a week-end attendance at McVicker's in Chicago. In three days it was shown to more than 40,000.

OPERA CALLS HUB GIRL

ANITA MURPHY, popular Winthrop and Somerville girl, is making her [illegible] on the [illegible] stage in Boston this week. She will join the Metropolitan Opera Company at the end of her present tour with Harry [illegible] and his girl ensemble, with whom she is now appearing at Loew's Orpheum.

Anita Murphy

During the past two years, Miss Murphy has repeatedly turned down attractive offers to appear in musical comedy and opera in order to continue her course of training under Mr. Girard. One of these tempting contracts was from the Shuberts to appear in the feature role of the outstanding stage success, "The Student Prince."

Miss Murphy was born in Charlestown and educated in Winthrop. While appearing in Boston she is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murphy at 17 Bromfield st., West Somerville.

NEW MODELS OF HUPMOBILES BIG SUCCESS

The new model Hupmobiles received an enthusiastic reception in all Metropolitan Boston [illegible] rooms as well as the entire New England dealer territory points.

A sales volume beyond expectations was registered according to an interview with Eric Courtney, general manager of the Boston Hupmobile Co., New England distributors.

The new eight-cylinder car in the medium price class [illegible] faster, more powerful and [illegible] striking innovation in [illegible] design and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] town sedan, coupe and [illegible] passenger phaeton [illegible] declared Courtney.

Both the cabriolet, which features a new patented top construction, and the coupe are equipped with rumble seats. The town sedan, which accommodates five passengers, has either black or tan sport fabric top. A custom trunk is included in the list price.

"Vivid performance is a characteristic of the new car. The motor develops 100 horsepower at 3200 revolution per minute [illegible] ing outstanding hill climbing and accelerating ability. It attains a speed of 80 miles an hour and accelerates from 5 to 50 miles an hour in 16 seconds.

"In exterior appearance the new Hupmobile Eight is strikingly individual. The radiator is higher and narrower. Shutters are built into the radiator for motor temperature control. A new radiator emblem has been designed. Two counterpoised triangles are mounted in blue on white, while the white H is mounted on the traditional Hupmobile escutcheon plate.

McCLELLON IN NEW POST

Announcement has just been made of the appointment of H. B. McClellon as manager of the Buick Sales Co. of Boston, used car division at 664 Commonwealth ave., one of the largest and best known used car merchandising organizations in the city. McClellan is exceptionally well equipped for his new position, having been connected with the automotive trade since 1910. At that time he was travelling mechanical inspector for the Alco cars. Then for approximately 14 years he was associated with the late C. P. Rockwell. He has an enviable record as a merchandiser of used cars, and enters upon his new duties with the best wishes of all his friends in the trade.

Would Eliminate Reckless Driver

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9—Vigorous prosecution of the reckless driver, with steps to entirely eliminate this criminal minority from the streets and highways offer the only means of curbing the mounting toll of fatalities from motor vehicle accidents.

This statement was broadcast today by National headquarters of the American Automobile Association on the basis of every indication that the total number of motor fatalities for 1929 will exceed 37,000.

Arlen in New Marquette

Richard Arlen, one of the newer stars in the film firmament, is shown [illegible] the wheel of a new Marquette sedan, Buick's [illegible] car in the lower priced field.

COUPLE DRIVE GRAHAM PAIGE 464 HOURS

A striking demonstration of endurance, human and mechanical, was given by two drivers [illegible] them a young woman [illegible] speed Graham-Paige, when Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams, without ever leaving the car, completed a non-stop run of 464 hours 7 minutes. In the 19 days and nights of continuous driving, they completed 18,232 laps around the half-mile dirt track at the Utah State fairgrounds.

As a test of stamina between man and machine the result was a draw, for both the car and the drivers were apparently good for many more hours when the run [illegible] and prosaically [illegible] with a nail through the right rear tire of the Graham-Paige [illegible].

Under the strict regulation [illegible] arrangements had been provided for changing wheels while the [car] proceeded under its own power, and changes had been made in practice on another 631 sedan. At the crucial moment in pitch darkness after the [illegible] been placed in position [illegible] the left [illegible] the jack [illegible] result was an abrupt [illegible] run.

The Graham-Paige had been picked from the stock of the Salt Lake City [illegible] by representatives of the Utah State Auto [illegible] the Association and the run was observed by [illegible] and checkers selected by that association. At the moment of its stopping the car was taken over by the technical examiner, G. F. Stephenson of Los Angeles, a nationally known expert. After checking the engine and chassis, Mr. Stephenson made affidavit that the car was a strictly stock model except that the battery was carried on the running board to facilitate the adding of water and a drain cock had been substituted for the usual plug under the crank case, to allow the oil to be drained off with the car in motion.

Several unusual features of the run added to its [illegible] interest and to the significance of the results. To the [illegible] the most interesting feature, next to the performance of the Graham-Paige was the [illegible] of the two drivers. They had elected to seek an endurance record by remaining in the sedan every instant of the run, taking turns at the control. The rear compartment was curtained off and in this restricted space the pilots who had an attendant on the ground, slept, bathed, and ate.

RELAY MOTORS HAS BOSTON EXHIBIT

At the request of many of Boston's fleet operators, Relay Motors Corp. [illegible] of their [illegible] at 71 [illegible].

The truck chassis is similar to any other motor vehicle except that its rear axle construction provides for the elimination of horizontal as well as the vertical road shocks, thereby increasing the life of the truck and considerably lowering the costs of operation.

Mr. Tracy, New England sales manager for the company, in explanation of their principles which is exclusively Relay design, stated: "It is possible with Relay to increase the life of solid and pneumatic tires from [illegible] per cent to 50 per cent with [illegible] savings in [illegible].

He further states that a perfect torque cushion is formed due to the manner in which engine power is applied to the rear wheels which not only eliminates strain and shocks along the entire length of the power line but the rear wheels are also [illegible] steep grades [illegible] would [illegible] the merger of [illegible] truck companies [illegible] opened offices in [illegible] New England [illegible].

Mrs. Earl Williams and her husband started in a four-speed Graham-Paige "621" sedan on August 27 and never left the car until September 16, after a 464-hour non-stop run at the Utah state fair grounds, Salt Lake city. A midnight puncture ended the r[un].

If you should lift the body of every car in Buick's field— and compare the chassis— then you too would choose The New BUICK

If you were to lift the body from the chassis of any one of a hundred cars—and compare the vitally important details of chassis design and construction—you would find Buick so outstandingly superior in all phases of fine car engineering that you would almost inevitably make Buick your choice. Here is what you would see in this famous chassis:

Buick's great new Valve-in-Head engine—developing 99 horsepower in the 124- and 132-inch models, and 80½ horsepower in the 118-inch models. The most powerful automobile engine of its size in the world. Representing 26 years of constant, aggressive improvement. Triple-sealed against wear, and incorporating such signal refinements as counterweighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control and positive pressure gas pump. Unapproached in sturdiness, all-round performance-ability, reliability and economy as well.

Buick's new Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes—revealing clearcut leadership over any other brakes of the day. Of the widely-favored internal-expanding type. Providing smooth, positive, silent braking, with minimum pedal pressure. Assuring absolute control of the car over all roads. And—because fully protected against dust, dirt and water—operating at maximum efficiency in any weather.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear and new Road Shock Eliminator—twin advancements introduced by Buick. Providing marvelous new handling ease. The Buick wheel offering effortless control throughout its entire turning range—and the new Road Shock Eliminator assuring complete freedom from annoying jolts and jars, even over the roughest roads.

Buick's unprecedented provision for riding comfort—new, longer rear springs, and new Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear. Working in perfect harmony—combining to check both bound and rebound—and providing a degree of riding ease without parallel anywhere.

And, finally, such established Buick superiorities as the famous double-drop frame of finest, toughest steel . . . the massive side and cross members reinforced at points of stress to insure the greatest roadability and long life . . . the celebrated torque tube drive, Buick multiple-disc clutch, self-lubricating differential, and numerous other features.

When the list of Buick's chassis features—entirely aside from the irresistible appeal of Buick's new Fisher Bodies—reads like a roll-call of all that is soundest and best in fine car engineering . . . and when, in addition, you can buy a Buick for as little as $1225, f. o. b. factory . . . what wonder that all comparisons lead to Buick! What wonder that more than 2,000,000 people have invested their money in Buicks—and that from two to five times as many are purchasing this new Buick as any other automobile priced above $1200!

PLENTY OF UNUSED MILES

Turn to Classified Section of Today's Paper For Listings of These Cars

THE true gauge of an automobile's value is the Unused Mileage considered in conjunction with its appearance and mechanical qualities.

The portion of an automobile's mileage that has been used by a former owner does not in any way detract from its desirability as a useful piece of merchandise. (Just remember that every car driven an hour or a year is a USED CAR.) Invariably the second owner gets MORE MILES PER DOLLAR INVESTED than did the first.

It is the first owner who must suffer a rapid price depreciation entirely out of proportion to the wear on the car. Consequently it is possible to get a car with 80% of its mileage UNUSED for 60% of its price when new.

Thus, the first owner's loss is the second owner's gain. Buy on a basis of UNUSED MILES and you won't go wrong. So, if value is your chief concern, and thrift is one of your characteristics, avail yourself of the unusual opportunities presented by the automobile merchants of Greater Boston. They are offering lowest possible prices, and terms within reach of all.

DEVENS AND MAYS, PONY BACKFIELD THREATS, ON SHELF; LEVIN ALSO OUT

SOMEWHAT refreshed after a day of rest, the Harvard first team swung on the seconds today in the final practice but one before meeting New Hampshire on Saturday.

The recent tussles between the varsity A and B teams took quite a toll in injuries, and Horween is not expected to pit his two best elevens against each other for the rest of the week.

Henry Myerson, Harold Levin, Charlie Devens, Ed Mays and Foster Davis were on the injury list today when Horween called his men on the field to face Jimmie Knox's second team.

Levin, who played right tackle in place of Foster Davis in the opening scramble with Bates, will not start the New Hampshire game. The Brookline boy was walking on crutches today as the result of leg injury, and it will probably be a full 10 days before he will be again in playing condition.

TICKNOR SHIFTS

In the meantime Bill Ticknor will fill in for Levin at right tackle. Horween has been grooming the former guard for this position in hopes of developing a good man to fill a particularly weak spot in the Crimson line.

Ticknor [illegible] to fill the Crimson mentor's requirements, as he has the necessary size and speed together with some experience at the job.

Rumor [illegible] New Hampshire [illegible] team to [illegible] Harvard next Saturday [illegible] when [illegible] Bill Cowell announced that his wildcats would score at least one touchdown against the Crimson.

Apparently the veteran mentor of the Wildcats has great faith in his team's scoring power. The Durham eleven flashed a brilliant overhead game to win over Colby and B. U. so far this season.

The man of the hour for the Wildcats is Johnnie Shea, who has been doing outstanding work at right halfback this season. Shea has great ability as a passer, and is considered a threat in line plunging.

Cowell is expected to start the same line-up against Harvard as he had against B. U.

If no injuries result between now and game time, Cowell will probably send his strongest line consisting of Hanley at left end, Robinson at left tackle, Wright at left guard, and either Hawkes or Averka at center. The right side of the Wildcat line will probably be made up of Bianchi at right guard, Clapp at right tackle and Donovan at right end.

MILLER COACHES ENEMY

Either Woods or Kelley will be picked by Cowell to call signals for the Durham outfit, while Gaunt, Eustis and Shea will be the New Hampshire carriers.

New Hampshire will have the advantage when the game is called in the fact that their assistant coach, Al Miller, was once a Harvard gridman himself and will be [illegible] Wildcats many [illegible] Harvard strategy.

At the Stadium, the coaches will spend the remainder of the week teaching forward pass defence. If New Hampshire takes the air line as a way to victory, the Crimson mentors want their charges to be able to hold the Wildcats at bay.

'Too Much Ehmke,' Is Root's Verdict

By CHARLIE ROOT
Star Pitcher of Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—It was a tough game to lose, but Philadelphia's victory was well deserved.

Ehmke pitched a magnificent game, even though he weakened a trifle in the ninth when Hack Wilson's drive hurt his hand.

We had lots of opportunities to score, but when hits meant runs we couldn't seem to deliver. But tomorrow is another day, and I am still certain that we will win the series.

I have nothing to say about myself personally, except I pitched the best that I know how and it wasn't quite good enough, I regret to say. However, I am hoping for another chance before the series is over.

Ehmke pitched himself out of holes as fast as he got in them and that was the cause of our defeat.

IT IS difficult to describe one's feelings going to the mound in the opening World Series game. There is a certain nervous tension, but it entirely disappeared after the first ball I threw at Bishop. Only it happened to be a strike.

The first two men were easy. I worked very carefully on Cochrane, too carefully, in fact, and he got a free trip to first. And, when Simmons fanned, the agony for the moment was over.

English pulled us out of a tight hole in the second, when he started a double play on a hard hit ball.

His errors, later in the game, were costly, it is true, but English is a great player, and I predict that he will shine before the series is over.

IT looked as though we had a chance to do something in our half of the second when Grimm got a clean single, but Taylor was an easy out.

I struck out to start the third and had a good chance to see some of Howard's benders, which were causing us much trouble.

Then, a single by McMillan and a double by English set the stage for some runs. Some folks thought that McMillan could have scored on this play, but I doubt it. It was good baseball to play thing

McLarnin and Baker Meet in Ring Tonight

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, now a legitimate welterweight, meets Sammy Baker, Mitchel Field veteran, in a 10-round bout at the New York Coliseum tonight.

Weighing about 143 pounds, McLarnin will be giving away four or five pounds to Baker, but experts expect he will not be troubled by that fact.

Baker, not so long ago a leading contender for the welterweight title, still has a terrific punch in his right hand, but he has been slipping badly in the last year or so.

Norwich Brushes Up Aerial Attack

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 9—In the belief that his Norwich team can defeat Colby here next Saturday with a properly developed forward pass attack, Coach Graham stressed this phase of football in the workout on Sabine field.

The Horsemen beat Colby a year ago via the air route.

Everett Waining is doing most of the Norwich throwing from his quarterback berth this fall, but he cannot duplicate the long shots that featured O'Donnell's work last season.

Nevertheless the Norwich mentor is determined to make the most of the aerial game against Colby. He may utilize Bob Barney to share the passing burden with Waining. He would like to return Gray Coane to end to strengthen the aerial attack but he feels he must retain him as a carrier until reserve backs show greater development.

SNEAD STAR IN YALE PRACTICE

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 9—Charley Snead alone of the Yale backs pleased the Blue football coaches.

He did all the scoring in 25 minutes of scrimmaging, piercing the scrub line for two touchdowns and dropkicking both goals for the odd point, ending the controversy with a 14-to-0 score for the blue-clad squad.

The reserve grays were in their best playing form of the season and halted the varsity for downs in their effort to score the second touchdown.

In addition, ragged ball handling in the varsity backfield set the [illegible] back 20 yards. Neither Albie Booth nor Herb Miller were in the first string lineup and Fred Loezer was withheld from guard until the final five minutes' scrimmaging. Both the first string ends, however, Jimmy Walker and Dan Hickock, were in the lineup for the first time since their injuries a week ago, and the coaches expect to start them against Georgia Saturday.

Harlan Ellis, last year's brilliant quarterback, reported in uniform and will begin competition. He has been handicapped by an injured knee which kept him from the track team.

Choice of Ehmke Big Surprise, Says Foxx

By JIMMY FOXX
Star First Baseman of the Athletics

Copyright 1929 by Universal Service, Inc.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 9—Connie Mack pulled a big surprise when he nominated Howard Ehmke to start the opening game. If there was ever a case of psychology playing an important part in a World Series, it was then.

The Cubs were dumbfounded when they heard that Ehmke who only had a fair season, was going to oppose them. But they were more dumbfounded when they got a look at his dazzling curves and deceptive underhand motion.

Of course to Ehmke goes most of the credit, but do not forget that he couldn't have pitched such great ball if Connie had not nominated him.

Root pitched well enough to win under most circumstances, but it was just a case of being opposed by a man who was pitching the greatest game of his life.

STARTING right in the first inning Howard had plenty of stuff. He got out of a nice hole when he retired Hornsby and Wilson on easy outfield flies after English got a lucky single.

It appeared to me that in the third, Root was putting every-

Of course, I don't think he could do it again. I'd like to see him start another game against us, and I suppose he will.

I feel confident that the next time we face him we will be able to hit that curve ball and judge [illegible] He [illegible] plenty of trouble and [illegible] He didn't need much support. He was the whole works himself on defense.

I [illegible] the A's had only [illegible] assists during the game. When he fans 'em out, as he was doing this time, nobody else has to handle the ball.

It was rather hard to judge the defensive strength of the Athletics in that first game. We weren't hitting the ball and they didn't have to do much in the field. But their attack was almost stopped stone still by the pitching of Root.

It was a tough game for Charley to lose and if he pitches another one as well as that I am sure he'll win it. Root had his stuff in that game. He was fast and he had a good sinker. That curve of his was fine and he had control of it.

SCHAAF SEEKS SPARRING PARTNERS

Ernie Schaaf, hard-hitting [illegible] sailor who [illegible] Sharkey's opponent in the battle of Miami next February, has [illegible] out an S O S for [illegible] sparring partners at [illegible] training camp, where he is getting into condition for his approaching bout with K. O. Christner, the Akron giant, which will be held at the Boston Garden on Oct. 18.

Phil Schlossberg, Schaaf's manager, has extended an invitation to any of the blossoming young heavyweights of Greater Boston to work out with the sailor. It always has been a difficult task to get sparring partners for Schaaf. It is hoped that a new crop of boys can be unearthed to aid in the heavyweight's preliminary work for this bout.

Schaaf is now working with Marvin Schechter, but it is expected that Jimmy Byrne will join the camp within the next day or two. Schaaf is one of the fiercest punchers in the game during his training sessions and no doubt this explains the hardships in obtaining sparring partners for him.

Although the thumping tar always has been noted as a hard worker in his training sessions, never before has he cut loose so early in preparation for a bout, but this is explained by his desire to be in his best condition when he faces the hardest hitting heavyweight in the ring today—K. O. Christner.

MR. BOSTON —by— JACK CONWAY

"HONEYBOY FINNEGAN [illegible] Mr. Boston [illegible] "Richard the Lion Hearted" [illegible] is to grow [illegible]

Eddie Mack of the Garden is planning to feature Finnegan on November 22. The Dorchester warrior has a great deal of fighting still left in his skinny body.

"Heart and head usually win for Finnegan when all else fail.

"Dick will leave for the country in a week or so to start his preliminary training.

"PHIL BUCCOLA was talking merrily about the combative qualities of Jack Gagnon when I collided with him on Washington st.

"'I want to send Gagnon against Maloney at the Garden,' said Phil. 'Jack gave Shamus more battling than he bargained for in their New York skirmish. He tossed a wet blanket over Maloney's highly advertised dynamite punch.

Jack Conway

"'Gagnon gave Maloney all kinds of opposition, but wasn't at his best. He had been training with Jack Sharkey at Orangeburg for three weeks, and had taken some healthy punches.

"'Let Gagnon have his own sparring partners and three weeks of solid training, and it will be just too bad what he will do to Maloney.'

"SHELDON H. FAIRBANKS, general manager of the Boston Garden and the big power and [illegible] man of the Radio Show, has asked me to drop in and take a look at his million-dollar exhibition. As Sheldon sent along a flock of Annie Oakleys with his invitation, I must give 'yes' as my answer.

"Incidentally Sheldon has been a trail blazer in the history of the radio game in New England. Young, ambitious, aggressive and intelligent, describes the Garden manager. We could add the word handsome, but Sheldon wouldn't thank us for such a compliment.

"THIS is the first opportunity we have had since returning from the Sharkey-Loughran bout to say that the Garden management displayed rare wisdom in naming Fred Hoey as assistant general manager. Hoey has been connected with sports as a writer, participant and radio announcer for many years. He knows his stuff and also knows what the people of Boston and New England want in the way of athletic entertainment. Good luck, Fred.

"JOHNNY BUCKLEY was around today displaying a telegram from Jack Dempsey. The former champion would like to feature Jack Sharkey in an exhibition in the Chicago Coliseum.

"BUCKLEY has turned down a flock of theatrical offers for Sharkey's services since the Loughran bout. The Boston heavyweight prefers hunting and fishing in the mountains of New Hampshire to hours spent on the stage. Life in the open air will make him a better fighter.

"I LIKE the new paint job at the Arena. It makes the place look bright and snappy. The new amplifiers could stand some adjusting so that the sound would be clearer.

"SHUCCO, by the way, was greeted wildly by his followers when he left the ring. They swarmed around him and shouted: 'You'll lick him next time, Tony.' Shucco has youth and so the boxing trail is still ahead."

[illegible] He looked to me as though he was trying too hard. Any pitcher [illegible] tell you that you can't [illegible] expect to go the route. Cochrane hit the ball hard in this inning after Mule had walked but went out on a hard hit ball down the third base line.

EHMKE'S magnificent pitching in the third when he fanned Hornsby and Wilson, with two men on the bases, is ample proof that Connie knew what he was doing when he sent Howard to the hill. It was a fine exhibition of what ball players call "guts." We breathed easier.

We didn't do anything [illegible] as I, Miller and Dykes [illegible] out in order. Our fifth was without incident. But in the [illegible] half, Simmons made a great [illegible] of Taylor's long drive down the left field foul line.

The pitchers' battle, in which Root had struck out four men and Ehmke eight, continued into the sixth, when we went out in order. Root had a world of stuff and we couldn't seem to hit 'em safe. Haas hit a terrific line fly, but [illegible] Wilson grabbed it.

EHMKE struck out the side in the sixth, Hornsby and Wilson again being among the victims, bringing Howard's strikeout total up to 11. It was one of the greatest pitching feats in World Series history, or any other kind of history, for that matter.

Came the seventh—as they say in the movies—and I hit my home run. I can't tell you just what kind of a ball Root pitched. My policy has been just to pick out a good one and slam it, which I did.

Ehmke's exhibition in the [illegible] enth was another bit of work [illegible] write home about.

Fanning two hard hitting pinch hitters with two men on bases—when a long fly would have meant one run, and a single two runs—proved that Howard was getting better as the game went along.

Ehmke has been around for a long time as baseball years go and here he was pitching the greatest game of his career when the most was at stake. His exhibition rather disproves the adage that youth must be served.

Winning the first game certainly gives us a big edge in the series. The Cubs have used up two of their best pitchers, Bush and Root, while we have Grove and Earnshaw just raring to go today.

I LOOK for Malone to pitch for the Cubs tomorrow—and I also look for another Philadelphia victory.

Since most of the fans overlooked Ehmke in doping the world series—and I admit that I did myself—don't forget that in addition to Grove and Earnshaw we still have old Jack Quinn, who may be heard from before the series is over.

H. C. LOSES FINN, STAR QUARTER

Worcester, Oct. 9—Scholastic difficulties caused the absence from football practice at Holy Cross of Barney Finn, Jersey City boy, and, up to today first-string pilot of the Crusaders.

How long the ban will be on is unknown, since he must make up an examination.

With injuries crippling the first-string men, Head Coach O'Donnell and his staff have their work cut out for them to whip the team into shape for Saturday's game with Rutgers.

According to Coach Cervini, who scouted the New Jersey college team last week, Rutgers has a snappy team and will be hard to beat.

To fill in the gap caused by the temporary loss of Finn, O'Donnell started Clarence K. Fraser, Somerville boy, at quarterback. Fraser has been trying for a wing job this year and until he hurt his back about two weeks ago was doing well. He has never played quarterback before.

Jim Bergen, another Somerville boy, will likely get his chance to start a game at center. This sught youth, who was an all-scholastic Boston center, despite his size and weight, probably will get the call Saturday as Jim Farrell is definitely out with an injured knee.

To bolster up the center position Line Coach Luke Kelley started working on John "Red" Brosnan, who has been a substitute guard. Henry Garrity is lost to the team for some time, as it is understood [illegible] tonsil trouble and will have to undergo an operation. Three cripples rejoined the squad today and worked slightly.

They were Capt. Stuart Clancey, Walter Klarman and Johnnie Evers.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The forward swing is, as I have mentioned, at a much more rapid pace than the back swing because, you will remember, the club accumulates energy at the top—where your swing is gathered. Now the speed of the forward swing is controlled this way: It goes just as fast as you can make your hands move forward, into and clear through the ball. Therefore, after your guide forward, and when the club, is say, half way forward—after it has got well into action swinging forward—you begin speeding up your hands, and you speed them up all you possibly can, up to the point where their maximum strength is reached. That commonly is called accelerating the club—and that is how you do it. Now you cannot, of course, speed up your hands if the muscles are rigid and stiff from over exertion—from over application of force and power. Thus you must keep them free and loose. You do that by avoiding any thought of hitting the ball, and by thinking entirely of stroking your hands through. This gets your mind in another place—on your hands; off the ball.

RANGERS MAY TRAIN HERE

Manager Lester Patrick and his New York Rangers may train here at the Boston Arena. For the past two years the Rangers have held their preliminary workouts at Springfield.

At present, Col. Hammond is dickering with the management of the Boston Arena for practice hours. The Arena is going to be busy this fall, especially if the Bruins decide to train there, with the Tigers and the Rangers.

Although the football season is just getting underway, the hockey season is right around the corner, and within a week or ten days, the players will begin to report.

Federal Warrants For Series Specs

Philadelphia, Oct. 9—Fifty "John Doe" federal warrants for World Series ticket speculators were issued and police were given orders to arrest 48 suspects on sight.

Henry B. Friedman, an assistant United States attorney, said federal authorities had mapped out a specific program against ticket speculators in an attempt to wipe out such speculation.

Friedman said the suspects were mostly hotel lobbyists and street-corner ticket salesmen.

The warrants issued today charge "John Doe" with failing to properly stamp resale prices on the back of tickets and failing to make returns due the government under provisions of the federal tax laws.

DEFENSE DRILL FOR GREEN

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 9—With perfect football weather at hand, the Dartmouth squad romped through a snappy drill that reached its high spot in an hour and a half of scrimmage.

A quartet of the Green regulars, Al Marsters, Len Clark, Hal Andres, and Hal Booma, were out of the lineup for the scrimmage the first in preparation for Allegheny and attention was devoted to the development of capable substitute material.

Tommy Longnecker, Bill McCall, Wilbur Ferry and Jay Whitehair were inserted in the lineup of the first eleven which worked entirely on defense against team B. The regular guard, Gay Bromberg and Paul Crehan, smeared everything that the seconds tried through the line and the secondary backed this up with an air-tight defense against passes. Today's scrimmage brought out one of the best all-round defensive exhibitions that the big Green has given this season.

Carey and Bancroft Are Let Out by Brooklyn Club

Chicago, Oct. 9—Brooklyn's two veterans, Davey Bancroft and Max Carey have been unconditionally released by the Robins, Manager Wilbert Robinson, president and manager of the Brooklyn club, announced. The rotund pilot of the Dodgers had nothing to say about the situation.

The announcement of Carey's release occasioned some surprise, inasmuch as the veteran outfielder, who came to the Dodgers from the Pirates late in 1926, had been prominently mentioned as a successor to Robbie when this veteran steps out of the Ebbets Field picture, something that Judge McKeever is earnestly in favor of.

Bancroft came to the Dodgers a year ago last spring from the Braves, a sort of desperate endeavor of the Robins to plug up an extremely wide-open gap between second and third base.

Previous to his advent the Braves for five years. In 1921 and 1922, when a member of the pennant-winning Giants, Bannie rated as one of the greatest shortstops of all time.

Bancroft is in Chicago to take in the world series, but declined to make any statement of his future plans.

Cubs' Heavy Hitters Didn't Worry Ehmke a Bit

Chicago, Oct. 9—Howard Ehmke was overjoyed by his victory in the initial game of the World Series. Here is what he had to say after the game was over: "I'm the happiest man in the world today. It was a great game to win. More so because of the fact that I have been told that I established a new record when I ended the game by striking out Tolson.

"I felt right when I started warming up and was sure that I was going to pitch a good game. I didn't worry about Hornsby, Wilson or Cuyler.

"I just pitched my game, using a fast ball now and then, a side-arm and a good change of pace. That's what fooled the Cubs and gave the Athletics their first victory.

"But don't forget there were eight other Philadelphia players on the field and each and every one of them is entitled to as much credit as I for the victory."

Athletics 10 to 6 Favorites to Win the World Series

By NICK FLATLEY

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9. The bite of fall was in the air as the clans ... today to watch the Cubs and Athletics stage the second game of this 1929 World Series. The sun shone somewhat dispiritedly and frost was attached to wind that came in off the lake and swept the ball park.

Early fans were wrapped up in heavy coats, and the girls, as they started to march in, displayed the new styles in furs. It was what might be called a perfect football day. A lesson for the visiting magnates. If they don't discover today that October is not the time for baseball, they never will.

Chicago's wild enthusiasm has been curbed a bit. The boys and girls who thought that the hammering Cubs would ride roughshod over the Athletics are still stunned. They cannot forget what Howard Ehmke did to their heroes.

Hope still burns high here, however. The Cubs all year have had a habit of recovering sensationally from wallopings, and the throngs were praying for some such revolution this afternoon. But there wasn't real faith in the team.

Around through the stands where the fans were wagering to while away the hours before game time the A's were favorites for today's game at 6 to 5 and picked to win the series at 10 to 6 figures.

RUSH SHUTS FIELD AT NOON

The keen edge of enthusiasm wears off a series always after the first game, but there was real baseball fervor in the cheering of the early crowds, the fans who had been up long before dawn waiting in line for the bleacher drive. The rush seats were filled once again ... and at noon the disappointed fans were departing from the ... to get the details by radio.

The Cubs today were practising up on low ball pitching. They ... ready if Connie Mack shoots some ... chucker at them. The pitchers in the batting practice were serving up slow curves and wide, sweeping ones. And the boys were connecting with them.

Hornsby cracked two ... into the right field seats and Hack Wilson came along and busted a prodigious ... into the ... parking spaces.

The fan heart is in the right place out here. When Woody English, who kicked two runs in for the A's yesterday came up, he was given a real ovation. The boys will be with the team unless it falls down again today.

These Cubs act like a veteran team. They show no sign of discouragement as they go about their business. They know they pack power and expect to unleash it.

ATHLETICS JUBILANT.

The Athletics are a much chipper lot than they were yesterday. Then they were serious and sober. Today they are chipper and frisky. The effect of that first unexpected victory has been very salubrious for them.

Jimmy Foxx, who killed Chicago's hope in the opener, is a hero here just the same. He was tendered a large ovation when he hopped into the batting cage. He obliged by pasting a tall fly into the exact spot where his important homer parked.

Al Simmons was swinging a bit freer than in that initial tilt, and a couple of his long drives bounded off the brick wall in deep left center.

Batting practice indicated that Earnshaw and Malone would be the day's pitchers. Both took their cuts in the nets. So did Rommel and Carlson, but the latter pair did not figure to get in unless something hapened to the regulars.

Mack Knows Game From Every Angle

Philadelphia (AP)—Connie Mack learned baseball from the ground up. He broke into the majors as a Washington catcher in 1886. He became manager of the Athletics in 1900.

He won pennants in 1902, 1905, 1910, 1911, 1913, 1914 and 1929, his team becoming world champions by defeating the Cubs in 1910 and the Giants in 1911 and 1913.

NEW STAR RISING ON BLUE FOOTBALL HORIZON

Albie Booth, Yale halfback, who primises to develop into one of greatest star ever to wear the Blue. Booth was captain of last year's freshman eleven, and made the varsity his first day out. As a punter and all-around back, he has few equals, and with two more years of varsity football ahead of him, should carve his name deeply in Yale grid history.

B. U. Eleven Fails to Satisfy Coaches

COACHES REGGIE BROWN and Ed Robinson are far from satisfied with the showing of Boston University's varsity eleven during the past week but have hopes of bringing it around in shape to beat Vermont ... game of the season at Nickerson Field, Saturday.

The varsity's offense lacks the smoothness and finish which should be apparent at this stage of the season. This ... in the running attack might well be attributed to the absence of several regulars from the lineup but the subs who are in their ... have had enough experience to carry out their assignments better.

An hour's scrimmage between varsity and freshmen in which the first team won by a 6-0 count, featured the most recent practice. Emile Palombo, who relieved Santo Marino at quarterback, scored the only touchdown for the varsity when he went through the center of the yearling line for two yards.

A long forward pass, Palombo to Thurman, on which the latter neatly broke loose was good for a 30-yard gain and placed the team in scoring position.

This was the longest gain of the afternoon as both teams relied on straight line thrusts for the most part and ... open up.

Billie Richards, latest addition to the varsity backfield squad, was used for the greater part of the scrimmage at right half for the first team and he gained consistently.

... Phil Hootstein, all members of the first string backfield, did not take part in the scrimmage because of minor injuries but will be ready tomorrow when the final close of the week between varsity and seconds will be held.

The first string linemen who did not participate were Jack Carnu, left end, Lee Stone, Herb Miller and George Catalano, tackles. ... is still ... a ... muscle and the ... of tackles are also ailing. With the exception of Miller ... men will be ready for action after another day's rest. Miller will be out for two weeks, at least, as he is suffering with a bad case of water on the knee.

The entire squad will be sent on the tackling dummy this afternoon, and the B. U. coaches will insist on plenty of this work until their charges improve.

Brown Varsity Has Easy Time

Providence, Oct. 9—Shifting his plans a bit, Coach Tuss McLaughry eased up on his varsity eleven and devoted most of his attention to the second and third teams which were put through a strenuous scrimmage.

The second stringers won the verdict, 12 to 0, with Bucky Harris, sophomore halfback, contributing both touchdowns after long runs.

Today they will go through a practice game against the scrubs and, according to performances, the Brown squad which goes to Princeton Friday, will be picked.

No changes were made in the lineup today, all the leading players except Walter Wentworth reporting on the field and in good shape.

Amherst Prepares for Lowell Tech

Amherst, Oct. 9—After the rest which the Amherst College football squad enjoyed, practice was resumed with a full afternoon's work on the lateral pass.

Coaches Wheeler and Stallings spent more time on this than on any other play, as it is intended to be used against the strong Lowell Textile eleven.

The session was polished off with a short but snappy signal drill to keep the old plays fresh. Capt. Wilson has fully recovered from an injured knee which he received in the clash with Princeton last Saturday, and the entire team is in fine physical condition.

The forward wall, which has been the cause of so much pessimism on the part of the mentors, is slowly but surely acquiring strength and experience and is expected to be in good shape by the end of the week.

Campolo Gets $3000 by N. Y. Board Edict

New York, Oct. 9—Victorio Campolo, the Argentine heavyweight, is $3000 richer as the result of the decree of the New York state athletic commission, ordering Humbert Fugazy, boxing promoter, to return that amount to the South American fighter.

The $3000 was posted with Fugazy by Gustave Leneve, Campolo's manager with whom he is now warring, after the Argentine's fight with Scott.

The money, according to Campolo, was taken out of his purse without his consent and posted with Fugazy as a forfeit for four more fights.

With the return of the $3000 and the acceptance of the $217 expense account by Campolo and rendered by Leneve, the Argentine's manager was reinstated by the commission.

HERE'S A WORD FOR MOTHER AND FATHER

Try to Understand Their Views, Says Writer

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

IT is said that youth and age never quite understand each other. The letter of "Weary at Nineteen" is charming, yet filled with the bitterness youth sometimes feels toward an older generation, especially mother and father.

"Dear Miss Fairfax

"I would like to get your view on a problem which has to do with one who should mean the world to me—Mother. To get on if I may, she isn't modern. That makes me happy many times, but what really is wrong in this: critical, critical not in any way of advising, but rather, the 'If I ever did that' manner.

"Mother's view is that modern youth is going to [illegible] at double-quick time. If I try to explain something, I am being impertinent. What can I do?

"I am late getting in, for example—something goes wrong or it was later than I realized—I explain—I am sorry—she tells me I cannot come to a good end. Sometimes [illegible] says I am no good, anyway, or I would not stay out so late.

"I was out until 1:30 last holiday. She [illegible] the family name. Never did I get encouragement, but [illegible] of confidence in me.

"Mother claims I am a hypocrite if I dine and dance on Saturday, then go to church twice on Sunday. Maybe! but my conscience bothers me none.

"Then, too, Mother [illegible] swears, sort of—that is, when she [illegible] crowd play bridge and that sort of thing. Once in a while I swear little swears. Maybe I would [illegible] anyway. But what hurts me most is lack of trust in me. It hurts me, don't you think? Yes? No?

"Please, am I unfair to that most beautiful name? Am I critical and [illegible] it's mother [illegible] or what! I can't [illegible] disillusioned. Thing [illegible] seems they should be. I can't find a way. I hope you will [illegible] and what [illegible] accept [illegible]

"WEARY AT NINETEEN."

With all your heart you are [illegible] Nineteen. If that were not true you would not have taken the trouble to write. I only hope I can help you by throwing light on this subject.

Let me ask you, first of all, not to accept my advice as final in any sense. But just think over what I write and see whether it seems reasonable and practical to you.

As you say, the word "Mother" is beautiful—because of the tender love and wisdom it suggests. When there is a misunderstanding between Mother and Daughter, it hurts both most dreadfully, because each is so precious to the other. You both long to understand each other and get on harmoniously—and you cannot seem to do so! That is because it is natural for you to see with the eyes of youth, while your mother views the situation from the natural perspective of her years, so you cannot see just alike.

Your mother was doubtless, up-to-the-second in her youth, but she tried many experiments that failed and has learned the advantage of being safe. She knows, for instance, the peril to health of late hours and she wants to save you from all danger. When she cannot do this she becomes frantic with anxiety and, being frantic, speaks sharply to you—says things she really doesn't mean. Just as you, in your heart, do not mean impatient, angry things you say—or think—about her.

Mothers are not perfect. Why should they be expected to be? Are they not human?

If she is critical of you, are you not also a bit critical of her? What is the one way to clear up misunderstandings? Through better understanding. If we all fully understood each other, we would love each other.

Try to understand your mother, dear Miss Nineteen. Put yourself in her place.

Knowing how sweet it is to be trusted, trust her. Then you will not feel impatient or angry, will treat her affectionately, follow her advice when you can and make it [illegible] for her to understand and trust you.

When the old-fashioned, conservative, tried and found good point of view talks things over affectionately, tactfully with the ultra-modern, radical, good-because-it-is-new viewpoint, a compromise results that comes pretty near being wise, practical and happy for all concerned. Will you try this plan for six months?

You need your mother's love and she needs yours, oh, so much! Promise me you will not fail her!

2—When dining in a restaurant what tip is necessary to leave? The other day my girl friend and I went to a Chinese-American restaurant and our meal was $1.75 each. We left a quarter tip. Was that correct? P.

WITH the modern idea of ensemble dressing I think that brown shoes, or at least shoes of a brownish cast, would be more appropriate with your brown frock than white shoes, which are apt to be rather startling with anything but white.

2—When we figure out a tip we begin with the more or less universal idea of 10 per cent of the bill. If we are not especially generous tippers, we abide by that, but if we are a bit more generous than that would indicate, or if we wish to reward special service or an especially attentive desire to please on the part of one who is serving us, we add to this original 10 per cent. For your $1.75 check 25 cents is a "normal" fee, enough, but not especially generous.

Somewhere Else

By LUCY LOWELL

IT is human nature to yearn for Somewhere Else.

No hill is so green but the hill over across the river is greener; no valley is so lovely but the valley beyond the mountain is lovelier.

It is at the rainbow's end that the pot of gold hangs.

It is true that restlessness has led adventurers out to discover unknown lands, to navigate uncharted seas, to trace unnamed rivers to their sources.

Likewise it is true that something of this restless spirit has been responsible for courageous regions colonizing in those places developing new country, founding homes. Thus have the problems connected with population, food production, political squabbles been solved.

But the restlessness nagging at the heart of the individual is no more than wanderlust; it is an unsettled, dissatisfied state of consciousness which keeps impelling him to move on, however unwilling he may be. And whereas he would prefer to settle down and be at peace, to establish a home, become a contented and useful producer, he turns into something little better than a tramp, a person always following a will-o'-the-wisp, which vanishes before ever he is able to put out his hands to fold it in.

The remedy? Oh, a change of thought!

Not easy at the first trial, perhaps, but easier with each successive attempt. Stop gazing at the far hill; look for the beauty upon the hill that is near. Forget the valley over beyond the mountain since and still a valley beyond that, and all are very much the same.

Dr. Bisch on Baldness

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., Ph. D.,
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

BALDNESS is one of the conditions men worry about. It is not, however, a disorder that necessarily means old age or the beginning of physical decay as so many men seem to think. And, of course baldness occurs in women as well as in men.

Baldness may come from one of several causes.

When the hair of the head begins to grow thin or falls out profusely when combed or brushed, two aspects of the case should be thought of at once.

These are whether the condition is purely a local one, or whether there are more indirect causes, namely, some disorder or actual disease within the body itself.

I shall take up the latter first since it comprises a group of reasons for baldness most often overlooked.

The man or woman whose hair is beginning to thin out should first of all determine whether his constitution is working at topmost efficiency.

Kidney disease, gout, diabetes, tuberculosis, anemia and other chronic conditions which do not allow the waste and poisonous products of the body to be eliminated properly lower the vitality of all the tissues and consequently of the scalp.

Acute diseases like typhoid, pneumonia or influenza may for the same general reason leave baldness in their wake.

Certain nervous disorders impair the nourishment of the scalp and [illegible] of the hair follicles or roots.

The so-called "glands of internal secretion" we hear so much about these days may be responsible.

Then, again, as a contributing cause of baldness we [illegible] general toxic states brought on by constipation, overeating, lack of exercise, alcoholic excesses, worry and other less obvious causes, less obvious only because people get into careless ways of living and do not realize that their general [illegible] is being undermined.

As to local causes for baldness, dandruff is the chief offender.

promote hair growth.

The indiscriminate [illegible] is to be deplored. [illegible] real basic cause [illegible] is, what the condition [illegible] is, and what remedies [illegible] tions are best.

[illegible] expert's job [illegible] that and the family [illegible] be able to [illegible] place.

Sometimes it is [illegible] be ordered in addition to local scalp treatment. Sometimes [illegible] glands. Sometimes the treatment of a beginning [illegible] disease may be to blame. Sometimes ultra-violet rays on the scalp are beneficial if done properly.

But each case of baldness is an individual problem and [illegible] or care may be a different job.

Easy by BEATRICE BURTON Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL"

CHAPTER 45.

ANN MARIE found her father in the side-yard where he was pottering around among his flowerbeds with a watering can in his hand.

He was a fine gardener and had always known more about growing flowers than he knew about making money.

"Someone walked all over my nasturtium bed the other day at the wedding," he said in his mildly complaining way. "Dear me, dear me!"

"Something worse than that has happened to you!" Ann Marie answered him grimly. "Leota Ingram has come to see you, and she certainly is on the warpath about something. She's out on the front porch waiting for you."

Mr. Macy set down his watering can and wiped his wet earth-stained hands on his handkerchief.

"Leota Ingram," he repeated. Isn't that the girl that Howdy used to like when he was a kid?"

Ann Marie nodded. "Yes — and you gave him a thrashing once for taking her to a party. Remember? I think he always ran around with her, though, until just before he met Stella and married her."

She was trying to prepare her father for the story that she knew Leota was going to tell him. Trying to soften the blow before it [illegible]

Leota was sitting in the hammock couch, swinging herself back and forth and smoking a cigarette in full view of sedate Pleasant st.

"How do you do?" she asked Mr. Macy coldly when he came up the steps of the porch. "I guess you know who I am. I came here to talk business with you tonight."

She crossed one silken knee over the other and made herself more comfortable in the [illegible]

"First of all," she [illegible], "I want to tell you what your family has done to me the last coupla months."

"My family?" Mr. Macy echoed, staring at her in mild astonishment from over his glasses. He sat down in his favorite porch rocker and laid his hands over the shiny knees of his trousers. "What has my family to do with you—or you with my family!"

"Plenty!" Leota [illegible] word at him. "Plenty! Take your wonderful son, first of all. You didn't know he was engaged to marry me when he left town, did ya? No, I guess not! But [illegible] it, and so did I. That's why he left town—and that's why he sent Ann Marie to me to buy me off! 'Cause he got cold feet all of a sudden and didn't want to go through with it and marry me!"

Mr. Macy stared at her [illegible]. But Ann Marie saw that his thin hands were trembling on his knees, and his face wore the look of one who has been stricken to the heart.

"If I'd used my head I'd stayed right here and made him marry me!" Leota's hard voice rang through the peaceful stillness like the clang of metal. "But I let Ann Marie talk me into taking some money and clearing out of town. She promised me $200—but she gave me only about half of it! And do you suppose I can get the rest of it out of her? Not a chance!—She's a double-crosser just like the rest of your family!"

"I've promised it to you, though," Ann Marie cut in, but Leota went right on talking, drowning her out.

"But I kept my part of the bargain. I got out of town and went up to New York—and there I met another man and fell in love with him. He asked me to marry him. And along about that time Ann Marie and Alice blows into town and takes a flat right next door to him."

She paused to light another cigarette.

"You know who the man was, don't ya?"

But poor Mr. Macy shook his head.

"How would I know?" he asked in his meek and gentle way.

"All right—I'll tell ya, then, if you're so dumb you can't figger it out for yourself," said Leota. "It was your daughter, Alice's new husband—Neal Forsythe! That's who it was!"

Mr. Macy's forehead knotted in a troubled frown.

"I see—I see," he answered, "and I can understand why you feel this way."

"Wait a minute! You haven't heard how I feel yet!" Leota cried shrilly. "I was just gettin to that . . . You admit I've had a dirty deal all around from your kids don't ya?"

Then Ann Marie spoke up. "You don't tell your story straight, Leota!" she said. "You didn't care whether Howdy married you or not . . . You just got that money from us because you wanted to go to New York, where Neal Forsythe was! You met him at Christmastime—long before you and Howdy had your trouble—"

"Rave on—but it ain't gonna do you a bit of good," she said and stood up, teetering on her high-pointed heels. "I just come from a lawyer's office, folks, and he tells me I oughtta sue Forsythe for breach of promise, and drag the whole story into the courts and the newspapers. He says the whole family has persecuted me—and he's right. You all have."

She threw the end of her cigarette over the railing into Mr. Macy's bed of mariposa lilies.

"But I don't want a scandal no more'n you folks want one," she finished. "So I come here to tell you that if you'll give me a coupla thousand to take me to Hollywood we'll call it square."

She started down the steps, her short skirts swinging, her headbag dangling from her fingers, the end of her fox scarf swinging back and forth like a pendulum as she went.

At the foot of the steps she turned, her lovely impudent painted face gleaming like an ivory carving in the summer dusk.

"Think it over, old boy," she said. "Think it over—and don't kid yourself I don't mean business, 'cause I do. I've had a lot of [illegible] lately, most of it bad, and I sure do need money. So think it over [illegible]

Halfway down the street [illegible]

[illegible]

Stella's voice from the backyard where she and Howdy were weeding the little vegetable garden . . . the sound of water from the lawn-spray pattering on the grass.

But there was no peace and no happiness in Ann Marie's soul as she sat there on the top step of the porch with her head against her father's knee.

"You couldn't raise a dollar for her, could you, Dad?" she asked presently, when the street lamp just beyond the maple trees had blossomed into light and the stars were coming out.

"You know I couldn't," her father answered just as she had known he would have to answer.

"I've [illegible] on this house [illegible] at other [illegible]" he explained. "[illegible] for the store [illegible]

Suddenly Ann Marie [illegible] her eyes [illegible] her father's knee. She was [illegible] She just crouched [illegible] in the darkness wondering why life had to be so full of misery for some people and so bright with happiness for others . . . There were Jennie and Alice both of them on their wedding trips, both of them spending this warm whispering starlit night with the men that they loved.

* * *

The next morning Mr. Macy came home from the store at 10 o'clock.

His wife and Stella had gone to market and Ann Marie was alone in her room upstairs, packing her overnight bag to go back to New York and her job.

"Well, Ann Marie, that girl does mean business," he said, coming in and standing just inside the door, mopping his wrinkled forehead with his handkerchief. "Beeseley just telephoned me and said that if she doesn't get the money she wants out of court she's going to start suit."

"Well, let her sue!" Ann Marie answered. "Neal hasn't a nickel to [illegible] I can't imagine where he [illegible] money to marry Alice—"

"[illegible] but she's not going to sue [illegible]" her father interrupted. "She [illegible] Beeseley must have got together last night and changed their plans. They must have found [illegible] Howdy's my partner in [illegible] they're going to sue him."

He mopped his forehead again.

"[illegible] a judgment against Howdy [illegible] shooting" he [illegible] hang over his head all his life until he gets it paid. Beeseley says that girl has a lot of love letters that Howdy wrote [illegible] before he married Stella—[illegible]

But that wasn't the worst of it.

An hour later Mrs. Leezy and Stella came home from downtown. Stella came straight up the stairs to Ann Marie and stood in the doorway of her room.

"I want to show you something I just bought," she said happily and opened a small package of white paper.

In it was a piece of the finest white batiste, some narrow lace [illegible] and a [illegible] of white thread.

"It's for a baby dress," sighed Stella, holding the batiste against her flushed cheek. "Howdy and I are going to have a baby next November. Now, isn't that the loveliest thing that ever could happen in all this wide big world?"

After she had gone Ann Marie still stood, gazing at the empty doorway . . . There were no two ways about it now! Somehow or other that $2000 must be raised and turned over to Leota right away before she started suit against Howdy for breach of promise!

"We can't let Stella find out about Leota—now!" she thought.

stay where I do not give satisfaction."

The maid was firm, however. She would speak to the housekeeper now . . . and the latter would find some one more suitable for Mademoiselle . . .

Now the housekeeper dealt direct with Mr. Criswell, and the abrupt departure of Toinette would soon be brought to his notice.

In that two previous maids had left her in a huff, and [illegible] made Mr. Criswell more [illegible] than the unjust treatment of servants [illegible] such a report would be a catastrophe . . .

Denise mustn't let it happen.

She put her cards on the table.

"I should miss you awfully, and my uncle would be quite upset about it. You remember how well you massaged his rheumatic shoulder! You mustn't think of going—"

To her chagrin, Toinette answered with a gulp: "I will present myself to Mr. Criswell now, and explain to him how impossible—how too impossible—"

Denise made a quick dive for her purse. With a $500 check in her bureau, and with so much at stake, she could afford to be generous.

"Take this, Toinette, and forget my silly nonsense." Into the maid's palm she thrust a bill or $10. "Now you can come on and curl my hair because I can't handle these [illegible] irons properly."

Toinette did as she was [illegible] but did not say one word, and Denise still felt a little anxious.

Her hair a golden fluff about her face, Denise—with her maid's assistance—slid into the yellow [illegible] dress.

"Please fix the violets on my shoulder—so." Toinette was light-fingered.

The result was charming. Like the "promise of spring" the girl looked in her jonquil-colored [illegible]

"Now Toinette, you see I can't do without you." Denise assumed her most coaxing manner.

Then, as the woman continued silent, she said, heroically, "I'll get uncle to raise you to $35 if you stay on."

Money did talk.

That did it!

* * *

She had given him 15 minutes alone with Malvey.

Sufficient business would surely be transacted in that period?

As she stood with the dark paneling of the door behind her, her hand irresolutely on the knob, she looked exactly like a golden daffodil that had been suddenly transplanted.

It has also been brought out that the buses are going after passenger business on a larger scale with sleeping cars to rival the Pullman organization. Judging by experiences of New England railroad executives as revealed to us in confidence, the passenger business suffers but little from bus competition. The real menace to passenger business on the rail continues to be the growing use of the private automobile.

Timken Roller Bearing rose 7 points to a new top at 127½, while Missouri Pacific preferred jumped 7 points. Several specialties, notably National Biscuit, established large gains in the final hour.

The market closed strong. Total sales approximated 2,900,000 shares.

PRICES HIGHER IN BOND MART

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—With time money showing an easier undertone, bond prices crept higher in today's trading. An increased demand was noted for obligations of high grade, while numerous obligations of speculative appeal, aside from the convertibles, also attracted attention.

Prime rails continued to improve. Atchison General 4s rose half a point, to be best price in some time. Miscellaneous issues displaying a degree of strength included Standard Oil of New Jersey 5's, Missouri Pacific general 4s, St. Paul 5s, American Smelting & Refining 5s and Southern Railway 6½'s. Indiana Limestone 6s, Illinois Steel 4½'s, New Orleans Terminal 4s and Hudson Coal 5s also advanced.

Convertibles were easier, American Telephone 4½s and Atchison 4s dropping about 2 points. Both issues of Allegheny Corporation 5s lost nearly a point.

The Texas Corporation's convertible 15-year 5s, traded on a when issued basis, were quoted about a point above the offering price of 98½.

United States government securities were slightly higher, and foreign obligations displayed a better tone.

The Texas Corp. $100,000,000 swelled the total of new offerings to the largest in several months for a single day. Other new bond financing included an $11,000,000 issue of Waldorf-Astoria Corporation first mortgage leasehold 25-year 7s with warrants at 103; and $8,000,000 Puget Sound Power & Light Company first mortgage 15-year 5½s at 97¾.

Both regular quarterly cash dividend of $1.25 and 5 per cent stock divided are payable Dec. 2 to stock of record Nov. 1.

Net earnings of Gillette Safety Razor Co. for nine months ended Sept. 30, 1929, after taxes, depreciation and all other fixed charges were $12,342,513 compared with $11,165,380 in the same 1928 period, increase of 10.54 per cent.

Labor Events Carry Warning to Employers

What South's Strikes Mean; Federation Acts on Old Age Pensions

By B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Momentous current events in the labor world should cause American employers to ponder. Having become national in their operations employers must become national in their thinking—or trouble will come.

Just what is happening?

The news from two quarters should be followed with special interest: The labor disturbances in the South, and the proceedings at the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

B. C. Forbes

• • •

It has been the writer's privilege to see much of the South during recent years. When seeking to furnish material for this column, too many Chambers of Commerce and other bodies emphasized, as a magnet for new industries, that wage rates were very low.

Repeatedly the warning was given during speeches that the rise of industrialism in the South would inevitably bring a rise in wages. It required no great wisdom to foresee that in many places the supply of home-grown labor would prove inadequate and that workers would be attracted from the outside. Also, it was a foregone conclusion that Southern capitalists would have to readjust their ideas to the new conditions which loomed ahead.

• • •

Without presuming to pass dogmatic judgment on the grave coal strikes, rayon strikes and cotton mill strikes which have caused so much bloodshed in various parts of the South, it cannot be denied that the impression created throughout the country has not been wholly favorable to the Southern employers involved.

I have visited Southern textile plants which revealed convincingly that the owners were striving conscientiously to make living conditions healthful and congenial. Indeed, the South has a number of cotton manufacturers who have gone much further than most Northern manufacturers to make life for their workers happy and attractive.

At other points the feeling created was that the wages paid were too low, the living conditions unattractive and that fertile soil was being prepared for the sowing of discontent by Northern labor leaders and unions.

Therefore one cannot avoid the suspicion that troubles which have been reaped were the fruit of what was sown.

• • •

The whole problem of Southern industrial labor conditions calls for business statesmanship of a higher order. Progress costs. The new South must needs become converted to new ideas. Old-time master-and-servant relationships are no longer tenable.

Briefly, Southern employers must become keenly alive to the fact they are face to face with a new species of competition, namely, competition for leadership of their work folks. Under whose banner will the workers decide to march forward? Will they see greater possible benefits by sticking loyally to their employers or by giving their allegiance to trade unions eager to battle for them?

Only Southern employers can give the answer, an answer which will have to be in deeds not words.

* * *

The American Federation of Labor is laying particular stress upon:

Unemployment caused by machine production.

"Discrimination" against the employment of middle-aged and old workers.

The further restriction of immigration and particularly Mexican immigration.

Opportunities for unionizing the Southern industries.

• • •

The United States cannot much longer shut its eyes to the pressing problem of making it possible for middle-aged and older workers to earn a living and to subsist after their earning capacity ends. The executive council of the federation makes this significant recommendation:

"We believe that in the coming year, a model compulsory old age pension law should be drafted by the federation and recommended to state federations of labor as a matter of first order of importance. We should then inaugurate an active campaign for the enactment of such laws in every state."

Yes, American industry must in its own longer interest, devote more pains to thinking nationally and to wrestling with national problems, including old age pensions.

World Production of Zinc Is Larger

World output of zinc in August, last month for which figures are available, is estimated at 136,406 short tons by American Bureau of Metal Statistics, against 136,018 in July, 134,475 in June and 110,379 in May, peak of year.

FOREIGN LOAN TOTAL REACH HIGH RECORD

Government loans of Latin American countries, publicly offered in the United States during 1928 established a new high record, according to a survey of Latin American financial developments in that period, which the commerce department has just issued.

The total of these loans was $344,598,000—an increase of about $13,000,000 over the figure for 1927. New nominal capital in this financing, it is pointed out, was actually less than in the previous year, estimated refunding to Americans having been $106,400,000 in 1928 as compared with only $54,029,000 in 1927.

While the public offering of Latin American corporate issues in the United States declined from $102,129,000 in 1927 to $92,880,000 in 1928, estimated refunding to Americans in the former year was $39,510,000, as compared with only $1,000,000 in 1928; so the new nominal capital invested in corporate issues publicly offered increased during 1928.

These figures, the bulletin explains, do not include large direct investments of American capital not represented by public offerings of securities. During the year large public utility holdings were acquired by American interests in Latin America, notably in Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico.

An interesting feature of Latin American financing revealed in the survey was the development of state mortgage banks. During 1928 the Mortgage Bank of Ecuador and the Banco Aricola y Pecuario of Venezuela were opened, both of which are government banks.

Furthermore, a law was enacted in Peru creating the Mortgage Bank of Peru. In Brazil, the states of Rio Grande do Sul and Parana both opened state-controlled banks with mortgage departments. The State of Bahia also enacted legislation for the setting up of a state bank whose chief purpose would be to make loans to agriculturists.

Other important developments outlined in the study include the following: Enactment of legislation by Bolivia providing for extensive changes in the country's financial organization: The provisional stabilization of Peruvian exchange; the successful maintenance for the second full year of the Brazilian stabilization program; the continued increase in the flotation of Colombian governmental loans in the United States for the construction of transportation facilities and other public works; the arrangement effected by Cuba with American bankers for the financing of the public works program through the issuance of public works serial certificates; and the negotiations between Mexico and the international bankers' committee looking forward to a new debt agreement, no payments being made during 1928 on foreign debt obligations due in that year.

AIR INDUSTRY IS DISCUSSED BY WILLIAMS

"The largest task the aviation industry faces today is to sell itself to American business and the public on a basis of economic usefulness and real accomplishment," Harvey L. Williams, president of Air Investors, Incorporated, told members of the Executive Club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Assuming a valuation of approximately one billion dollars for the industry, Mr. Williams said that it probably would be unable for some little time to earn a satisfactory return on its present valuation.

"In some instances," he added, "scheduled passenger carrying has shown a profit, but these operations have been decidedly the exception. Sightseeing and taxi operations have also shown a profit in a greater number of instances, but I believe it may be fairly said that the carriage of passengers in all classes of service for the industry as a whole is still being operated at a loss. I think it is quite obvious that for the industry as a whole the return must be very low.

"This does not indicate that all of the companies interested in aviation are suffering from unprofitable operations, as the bulk of the [illegible] manufacturing [illegible] activities [illegible] quotations. Generally speaking, the operation of air transport lines or airplane lines, carrying low contract sales and the many factors of small airplanes are the ones who are suffering the most.

"Furthermore, it is probable that 75 per cent of all the industry's activities are carried on by less than a dozen companies. Out of the remaining [illegible] companies there will undoubtedly be a large number of failures during the next two or three years. Meanwhile, some of the larger, well rounded and ably managed companies will probably increase their earnings and will show thoroughly satisfactory net earnings on the capital involved."

PRICES LOWER ON BIG CURB

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—Prices sagged on the Curb market today. Although call money was plentifully supplied at the 6 per cent renewal rate, there was some concern over the course of the market in the immediate future. After an irregular opening, a selling movement was launched which carried some of the high-priced utilities down several points.

Losses of 1 to 5 points developed in Electric Bond Shares, Electric Investors, American Light & Traction, Northern States Power A and United Gas Improvement and Middle West Utilities.

American Gas & Electric was a strong spot, rising about 2 points.

Industrials joined the utilities in the decline. Commercial Solvents, Crocker Wheeler, General Theatre, and a few others lost approximately a point. Union Tobacco, Stutz Motor and Southwest Stores touched new lows.

Investment Trusts were slightly easier and the oils also sold off. Cities Services continued its advance, rising to another new high above 65.

Pennroad Corporation rights admitted to trading on a when issued basis, were quoted around 2⅛.

$49,900,000 FOR PENNROAD

New York, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Pennroad Corporation, holding company affiliated with the Pennsylvania Railroad, proposes to raise $49,900,000 through the issuance of 3,025,000 additional common shares in the form of voting trust certificates at $16.50 each. Present certificate holders will be entitled to purchase new ones in the ratio of one for each two held.

The rights, on the basis of yesterday's closing price of [illegible] for Pennroad stock, are worth in the aggregate about [illegible]. In announcing the offering, the company made known that it had purchased the Canton Company, a strategic piece of railroad property in Baltimore.

Thirty-six chain store companies, reporting sales for September, had a total of $212,321,000, an increase of 19.76 per cent over September, 1928.

The Northern States Power Company has made reductions in the price of electric light and power which are expected to save consumers in the Central Northwest approximately $1,250,000 annually.

The weekly estimate of bituminous coal production in the United States for the period ending Oct. 5 is placed by the National Coal Association at 11,200,000 net tons, a decline of about 250,000 tons from the total for the preceding week.

$2,000,000 Gold

Guaranty Trust Co. received $2,000,000 United States gold coin from Argentina.

NEW England Equity Corp. declared regular quarterly common dividend of 62½ cents a share, payable November 1.

English Brick House; Cost $9900

FIRST FLOOR PLAN — SECOND FLOOR PLAN

DIGNIFIED ENGLISH HOME, WELL BUILT

(By National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc)

BRICK houses in general and English brick houses in particular, give an appearance that might be termed as "satisfying." They carry an air of permanence and dignity, a feeling that the home is well-built and will last for generations.

House HA-152 shown herewith is of brick on the first story and weather boards above.

The plan is so conceived that a maximum of space is given the rooms. On the first floor one enters into a small vestibule, thus space that would ordinarily be used for hall space is given over to the living room.

There is a large fireplace in this room where one may enjoy the warmth of the open fire during the cool days and a small sun porch opens from this room by French doors and makes a cool and restful retreat in summer.

There is a large size dining room with an attractive window seat and a kitchen with every convenience to aid the housewife in her work.

On the second floor there is a small hall, from which access is gained to the three bedrooms and the bath. Two of the bedrooms have generous closets and the third has a large wardrobe lighted by a window.

Within and without the house is at once attractive and compact, giving a maximum of space and charm for the least amount of money expended.

For a proper setting this house should have a lot with a frontage of not less than 58 feet.

Cost about $9900.

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to House H. A-152.

LITERATURE on standard materials and products used in the construction of Modern Homes will be sent to you, if you will check the subjects that interest you and mail to the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

A Friend From Poland

Whose English May Have Been Faulty but Whose Courage and Loyalty Were Beyond All Question

CASIMIR PULASKI, mortally wounded one hundred and fifty years ago today in the French-American assault upon the British at Savannah, was among the most famous of the foreign volunteers who served in our War of Independence.

Son of a Polish nobleman, Pulaski not only gave a brave young life to the American cause but replenished the treasury of the Colonies with a gift of $50,000.

When he arrived in Boston, in the month of July of the year 1777, Pulaski was only 30. He went directly to Washington, Headquarters and for a time was attached to the General's staff.

In September, he received his American baptism of fire in the Battle of Brandywine and a few days later became our FIRST brigadier-general of cavalry.

But there were cavalry officers who could not endure a foreign superior. His ENGLISH was faulty. The intrigues of subordinates made his position unbearable and in the Spring of '78 he gave up his command.

NO ONE found him lacking in courage and devotion and to the last he retained the friendship of Washington.

Early in 1779 the Commander-in-Chief sent him into the South. There, on October 9th, French and Americans attacked Savannah, heavily fortified by the British, and Pulaski fell with a shot through the thigh.

"The disinterested and unremitted zeal which you have manifested in the service," Washington had written to him, "gives you title to the esteem of the citizens of America and has assured you mine."

On the anniversary of his self-sacrifice it is well to be reminded of our debt of gratitude to the son of Count Joseph Pulaski.

'Native' Turkeys

If Massachusetts-Grown Will This Year Wear a Tag

"OVER the river and through the wood to grandfather's house we'll go," and if he will only watch out, this year, the Thanksgiving turkey grandfather buys for "native" will BE a native.

Turkey-raisers and representatives of the Division of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, have agreed upon a plan by which birds which have been raised in Massachusetts will go to market next month bearing a distinctive mark.

Ever since Massachusetts turkey-raisers learned that clean stock, clean shelter and clean land meant the eradication of "blackhead," Bay State flocks have been growing larger and larger and the Bay State bird better and better.

Marketmen will tell you that, as a rule, THEY handle but few Massachusetts turkeys, which command a premium of 15 cents over the "Western." The automobile, they explain, has made it easy for the farmer to "sell direct." Boston shops for its turkeys in Middleboro, or Norwell, on the Cape and in Essex and Middlesex Counties.

Be that as it may, the Division of Markets replies, buyers DO ask for "natives," and in the past have bought, as "natives," turkeys which were NOT "natives."

There will be no more of that, if the careful shopper will look for the identifying brand.

THAT being settled, the meeting will take up the question of STUFFING. Which do YOU prefer—bread, oyster or chestnut?

Three-Minute Trips

By TEMPLE MANNING

LIBERIA! [illegible] of the [illegible] Monrovia! A name based on that of a President of the United States. And quite naturally, for, of course, Liberia was founded largely by freed American slaves, and its constitution and declaration of independence were almost copies of those of the United States.

Monrovia, on the coast, is tropically beautiful and its harbor interesting and [illegible]. The bay is about seven miles wide and as a boat enters it passes between two high peaks, while straight ahead lies an oval of sandy [illegible] by tall palms.

The [illegible] the Bay of Monrovia [illegible] sand bar. Because of this [illegible] ers are forced to anchor about a mile offshore. Passengers and freight are transferred to surf boats and thus carried to shore. This, as is usually the case with surf boats, is sometimes a rather thrilling procedure. The passenger always marvels at the skill of the head boatman in "riding in" on a long rolling wave.

Out beyond the bar the surfboat [illegible] a huge wave curling in from the ocean. He cries to the [illegible] boatmen, and then as the craft—which seems extremely frail at this moment—is lifted to the crest, the oars drop into the water and the rowers pull strenuously to keep the boat [illegible] the wave. Over the bar goes the boat at breath-taking speed, over the bar into the quieter waters beyond.

The water front of Monrovia is disappointing. The main wharf is small and rather dingy, and the waterfront street—another "Water Street"—is none too pretentious. The business houses look rather dilapidated.

But when one climbs the hill from the water one soon comes to the main residential thoroughfare known as Ash st. Here is the [illegible] mansion, foreign legations and consulates, and the best residences. These are reminiscent of American colonial houses with their pillars along the front.

Monrovia is a particularly interesting city on the days when the [illegible] arrive. Then the populace and particularly the women-folk appear in all the glory of brightly colored printed cloth. Their dresses reflect every color in the rainbow.

I'll tell you more about Monrovia in a later article.

ONCE-OVERS

ISN'T it true that you enjoy being a bit crusty?

It gives you a degree of satisfaction to think that some folk don't want to annoy you because of the tirade of abuse you can give on occasion. You enjoy the efforts the family make to avoid rousing you. If you have others working under you, you like to note they try to please you and why.

All of which shows how small you are as an individual.

You are seeking authority not warranted by your ability. You aspire to a leadership by the only method that you know, but by one that a real leader would never adopt. Genuine leaders don't bulldoze and bluff in order to get orders carried out.

You won't have any trouble in measuring yourself by this yardstick.

And others can measure you just as easily.

You don't fool anyone, not even your own family.

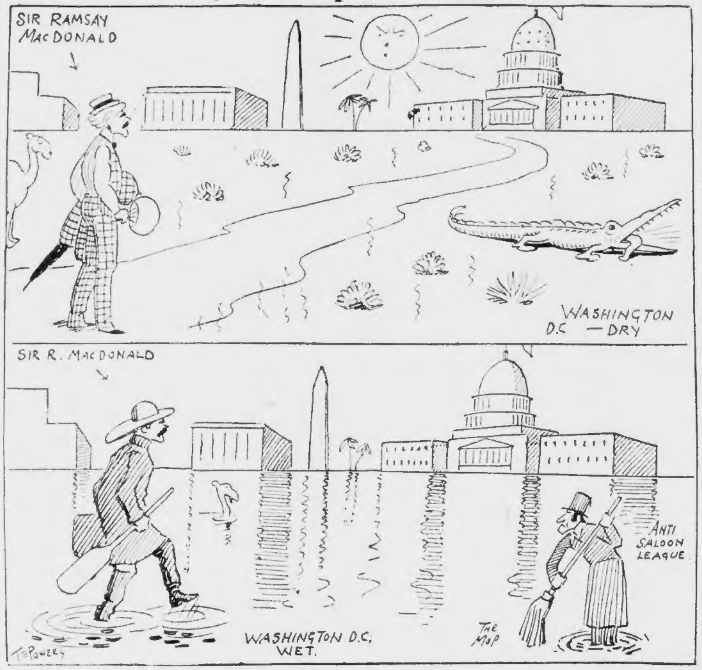

They have a full conception of your lack of ability.

Being charitable toward you, they may not permit themselves to say to you or anyone else what they think of you in this respect.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Fritz Von Opel, of the family of [illegible], startles the world by flying through space on a skyrocket.

Fritz was the man who invented the rocket automobile which now numbers peacefully and fractiously in the spot of honor on [illegible] junk pile.

Fritz's motor car was a success. It was more rocket than car. Fritz reached his destination before he had arranged for terminal facilities.

We do not know Fritz, but some day we may meet him while taking a stroll inside a cannon.

His latest and most nimble experiment was in the aviation industry. He tied a rocket to a glider and then touched a match to the [illegible].

When the rocket started zipping Fritz started zooming.

He was in the air eighty seconds. Just long enough to fall.

He [illegible] at an average altitude of [illegible] feet. The only reason he wasn't drowned is because [illegible] the wrong direction.

He gained immortality and lost his coat-tails.

The glider, the rocket and Fritz all fell together. The rocket was still sputtering. But Fritz was not.

He wasn't injured. And we don't know who to blame.

Fritz fell on his native heath so hard that nature will never succeed in replacing the divot.

He fell with legs akimbo. With a thump loud enough to curdle the Milky Way.

In spite of the fact that Fritz is still alive he considers the experiment a success.

He claims that he can shoot himself around the world in five hours if conditions are right.

Witches may ride on brooms and Fritz may prowl on rockets. But that is not our idea of passenger service.

Still, if Fritz wants to blow himself up by placing gunpowder in his hip pockets, that's all right with us. They're tossing so many bombs today that it's a relief to see a man toss one at himself.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN in doubt . . . KEEP IT TO YOURSELF!

CONSUME YOUR OWN SMOKE!

Put on the good old poker face and don't show anyone that you have nothing in your hand bigger than a couple of deuces, and maybe not even that.

Love your fellow man—play the game with him—BUT BE EXTREMELY CAREFUL HOW YOU CONFIDE IN HIM.

Confidences, in times of stress, are a relief and a comfort, but they are extremely dangerous, for with each confidence you put yourself at the mercy of the other fellow and sacrifice something of your standing.

You have, in times past, established a certain rating with that other fellow. Each confession of weakness detracts something from that rating. And the bigger you've been, the harder you'll fall in his eyes. He'll not only be sorry for you, and vaguely contemptuous, but, unconsciously, he'll be mad. Here he's been thinking that you were a Pillar of Strength. You let him think that. You probably encouraged it. You let him respect you—let him, as it were, place all his bets on you. AND NOW YOU REVEAL THAT YOU'RE JUST AN ORDINARY GUY AS FULL OF KNOCKS AND WOBBLES AS HE IS HIMSELF. He's bound to feel, somehow, cheated.

Chances are he won't put this into words, but the feeling will persist just the same, and show in a subtle cheapening of his attitude toward you. He'll patronize you . . . now and then he may remind you of what you've said, with a tinge of exasperation . . . or, if he's mean minded, he'll show a malicious glee at the thought that you're shown up, at last. For didn't you make him feel small by your bigness? You did. Then naturally—

Then YOU'LL get mad! "Why should he assume that attitude just because I turned to him in a moment of weakness?" you'll cry. "Don't my fine past record entitle me to respect and sympathy?"

Don't fool yourself! ONE MOMENT OF ILL-JUDGED CONFIDENCE CAN OFFSET AND UPSET A LIFETIME RECORD FOR FINE PERFORMANCE.

Remember that old saying:

"Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep and you weep alone!"

That may seem depressing, but the actual facts are even more so. The truth is—

"Laugh and the world laughs with you;
"Weep—AND THE WORLD GETS THE BULGE ON YOU!"

And there's a fair and healthy reason why it should! The world isn't deliberately cruel or traitorous. But—LIFE MUST GO ON. That's a fundamental law. Life must go on though skies fall and humans falter. And social usage is built on that stern necessity. Society "expects every man to do his bit"—FOR IF HE DOESN'T DO HIS BIT THE CONTAGION OF FEAR AND GRIEF WILL SPREAD TO THE CHAP NEXT IN LINE.

So even though you're inwardly racked—BLUFF IT—carry on until you can think out the thing for yourself.

Hard advice? Well, take it on the other tack, then. After all, what good does the average confession do? Can the other chap do YOUR thinking for you—YOUR acting? Can he possibly judge YOUR circumstances? No, he can't. It's up to YOU. So cover your hand and tighten your jaw AND DON'T TIP 'EM OFF!

THE MARRY-GO-ROUND

By HELEN ROWLAND

LISTEN to this, oh ye light-hearted Romeos and gay sheiks of 1929!

"If now in that chair yonder . . . were seated a sweet-faced girl with a pretty foot lying out upon the hearth, and a bit of lace running round the swelling throat, the hair parted to a charm over a forehead fair as any of your dreams—and if you could reach an arm round that chair-back, without fear of giving offense and suffer your fingers to play idly with those curls that escape down the neck—and if you could clasp with your other hand those little white taper fingers of hers which lie so temptingly within reach."

Yes, my Son, this is a vivid description of a "petting party" in the gay and giddy Fifties! And Grandfather got a tremendous "kick" out of reading about it in the most popular book of his day.

"Your true flirt plays with sparkles her heart, much as there is of it, spends itself in sparkles. How carefully she cramps it, if the flames show too great a heat; how dexterously she lines its blaze here and there; how coyly she subdues it; how winningly she lights it!

"Yet she will play you off a pretty string of sentiment which she has gathered from the poets, she adjusts it prettily as a Gobelin weaver adjusts the colors of his broidery.

"She shades it off delightfully and there are no bold contrasts for a most artistic mellowing of nuances."

All of which, translated into the vernacular of today, means that the "Hot Mama" of the period knew how to get a man without the aid of a saxophone or a sun-back bathing suit.

If you doubt me, you can read it all in that naughty, cynical book (?) "Reveries of a Bachelor," by Ik Marvel (Donald G. Mitchell) which was read and quoted by all the gay young bloods of the Fifties, and was still going strong with the cynical young bachelors in the Gay Nineties.

And, whether it makes you yawn or whether it makes you laugh, you can't deny that there was a glamour and flavor about the love-making, that left so much to the imagination, which the modern frank and easy love-making somehow lacks.

Grandmother, lacking the supposed lure of the bare knees and never having heard of sex-appeal, had to use her wits and her brains to get them going—but she usually managed to get them going to the altar!

Standards in Science

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

IN recent years a great outcry has gone up against standardization. We are assured on all hands that the world is losing its elasticity, the race its spontaneity.

People are becoming standardized—witness the average college graduate or look at the next 50 girls you meet on the street. All alike! Speak alike, walk alike, dress alike, think alike. Or look at industry—the Ford car, the dollar watch, the linen collar. Uniformity, regimentation, standardization.

However we may inveigh against standards in conduct, in dress, in luxuries, there is one department which is proof against all attack. That is Science. We cannot dispense with accuracy in science—it is the basic technic of science.

People are coming to see generally that science, in a broad sense, may be regarded as the machinery of exact measurement.

Even Einstein rests his whole theory upon the correct comparison of clocks identically alike and meter sticks precisely similar. In science nothing is really "true" until we have measured one thing exactly as compared with something else which is precisely known.

The thing precisely known is what we call a standard of measurement. Suppose we have a mass of lead. We cannot tell how much it weighs until we know how many pounds or ounces, say, there are in it. This implies, of course, an exact knowledge of the weight of a pound or an ounce.

"Well, what of it?" someone says. The answer to that is another question. "Where are the standards—this accurate chronometer, this exact pound, yard or what not?" In this country we answer our own question: "The Bureau of Standards."

It functions under the jurisdiction of the United States Department of Commerce and operates in 20 buildings on a 43-acre tract on the outskirts of Washington, D. C.

The whole structure of our material civilization rests upon this foundation of exact knowledge of precise standards.

Attempt to ignore these standards and erect a Woolworth Tower, a Roosevelt Dam, a Brooklyn Bridge, without them!

WISE WORDS

He that lacks time to mourn, lacks time to mend.—Taylor.

A wise man is not wise in everything. —Montaigne.

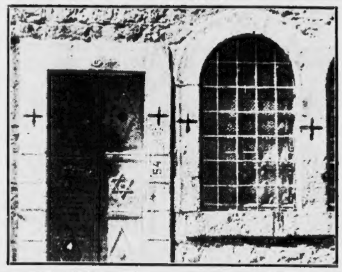

Genius invents, wit merely discovers. —Weber.

Christian Jerusalem Home

Protected by the Sign of the Cross

(Copyright, 1929)

A CHRISTIAN HOUSE IN JERUSALEM MARKED WITH RED CROSSES TO INSURE SAFETY FROM FANATICAL ATTACK.

IN recent Arabian uprisings in Jerusalem, the hatred of Arabs was directed only against Jews. Arabs resent the rights guaranteed to Jews by the British mandate, and resent especially Jewish SUCCESS, in colonizing Palestine, restoring lost fertility to the soil and building up prosperity, in factories.

It is curious now to see the Arabs sparing the houses in which dwell the adherents of a new religion.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—The richest New Yorkers are often the slowest pay in this city of dreadful debt. Tradesmen are frequently jockeyed into positions where a refusal to extend further credit may jeopardize the chance of collecting at all. So they stand the gaff.

When a debt reaches certain proportions it becomes inadvisable to sue, because the case goes to a higher court and may not reach the calendar for at least two years. It is significant that many rich people rarely patronize cash institutions.

One of New York's most accomplished wastrels once declared that if you could make your bills big enough they would support you. His theory was that after you had expanded credit to the breaking point, a merchant would rather continue than face prospect of losing all in court litigation.

Extravagant wives are the most difficult debtors. There is the wife of a Washington millionaire whose accounts have been closed in nearly all New York shops. High class jewelers, dressmakers and milliners have a Society Dead Head List. So have expensive cafes.

Among names on this list, which I have seen, are many whose daily social activities embroider the society pages. They are the bluest of bluebloods, prominent in all charity enterprises, yet they will not pay just debts until forced to.

In most of these instances there is no lack of ready cash, but merely an inclination to procrastinate. Strictly speaking, they are not "deadbeats." Great stage and movie ladies are frequently notoriously slow pay. Some of the top-notchers have no credit whatever.

All the luxury shops, particularly the florists, suffer from this reluctance. This summer a wealthy bachelor was sued for $8000 solely for orchids. Astute credit men prefer to extend credit to so-called "middle-class." They are promptest of all.

A sleek, well-fed yogi of the flesh who is reputed to have fattened for years on the fruits of blackmailing shakedowns came into a cafe the other night. "He reminds me," observed Damon Runyon, with ambrosial elegance, "of a glossy and bloated beady-eyed rat."

C. N. O'Dell, a former Washington newspaperman, discovered even dirt is not cheap in New York and rushes in breathlessly to drag me around the corner to a florist and point to a window card reading: "Dirt—10 cents a quart." The city dweller has no place to get dirt for flowers unless he takes a chance in digging it out of a city park and have a cop inquire what in the so and so he is trying to do.

The rich and socially prominent no longer go into seclusion when scorched by the red flare of scandal. They face the music with flags flying. Recently a noted gentleman was sued by an avenue atelier for purchased articles to the amount of $5000. They were for a lady presented as his fiancee. The gentleman was married. That afternoon the story spread-eagled front pages. The same evening at a smart new and urban decorated restaurant the gentleman and his wife attended a dinner party, displaying themselves conspicuously. In this fashion, they attempted to bridle busy tongues.

A courtyard accordion player in a velvet coat and tam has become still another sensation at smart apartment soirees. He was picked up one night by a crowd of roysterers in a speakeasy and played so engagingly he is now in demand at $100 a night.

She is a lady whose heart has never known its springtime. For 20 years she presided over a musty private library, and recently, through death of its owner, came into a small fortune. Now, gray haired and faded, she goes the rounds of cafes and first nights, puffing at cigarettes and trying to keep step with an age that has passed her.

There are many prim ladies, made forlorn by jazz hysteria, who do not realize that as a wise philosopher—Eddie Guest, I think—has said what men admire best of all is the unsullied modesty and difference of a pure, good woman. But they continue to marry the gold diggers!
